M'Carthy Declares President Will Be Censure Vote Factor

Demo Committees Also "Unpredictables"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) said tonight President Eisenhower will be a definite factor in the Senate vote on whether to censure him.

McCarthy paired Eisenhower with the Democratic National Committee and the Senate Democratic Policy Committee as "unpredictables" in any attempt to guess the outcome.

"Atlantic Unity" Plea Made By 151 Leading Citizens

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—An "appeal for Atlantic unity" was issued today by 151 prominent citizens of the United States and the seven other nations belonging to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

They proposed that NATO, described as "still basically a military alliance," be strengthened by closer ties in political, economic and military affairs. The proposal included use of German defense forces.

Among U. S. signers of the appeal, issued at the same time in New York, Canada and Western Europe, were:

Benjamin F. Fairless, chairman of the United States Steel Corp.; Henry Ford II, former president of Ford Motor Co.; Adlai Stevenson, Gov. of Illinois; George C. Marshall, John J. McCloy, chairman of the Chase National Bank, and historian Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr.

Red Is Charged With Imperiling French Security

PARIS, Oct. 3 (AP)—Andre Baranes, a Communist journalist, was today charged with "imperiling" the security of the state.

A military instructor, magistrate, Maj. Jean de Resseguier, lodged the charge against Baranes, quoted by authorities as confessing that he relayed secret information on meetings of the National Defense Council to the Communists even while serving as an informer for French police.

Under French law, an instructing magistrate acts as a sort of one-man grand jury in cases such as these. If convicted, Baranes would face a maximum of 10 years in prison and a fine of $13,713.

Two high civil servants were arrested Friday on a charge of giving secret information to nonqualified persons in the scandal, which has rocked the government while the London defense conference claimed most of Premier Pierre Mendes-France's attention. Both are extreme leftists.

These two are Roger LaBrusse, who was in charge of "national protection" at the Defense Ministry, and Rene Turpin, chief of the personal secretariat of the Defense Ministry's secretary general, Jean Mons.

Police informants said Baranes — arrested in east-central France yesterday in flight on a woman's red bicycle toward the Swiss frontier — admitted a role in the leakage during 15 hours of uninterupted questioning by four French counter-espionage agents.

Snooze On Plane Becomes Nightmare For Army Man

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 3 (AP)—An Army officer who popped half way out of an airliner's emergency hatch 13,000 feet above Indiana says he thought for a moment, "This is it."

The shattering experience awoke Lt. Col. James Greenway, 48, of Seattle, Wash., from a snooze not long after the New York bound DC6 four-engine plane left Chicago for Cleveland around noon Saturday.

The seat safety belt, which he had loosened but not unbuckled after the takeoff, held him by the knees when the two-foot square hatch beside his seat flew off the plane.

The United Air Lines craft, carrying 66 passengers and four crew members, was cruising at 300 m.p.h. above Goshen, Ind.

Col. Greenway, under observation today in Memorial Hospital, South Bend, gave this account:

"The first thing I knew, I was about half out of the plane. I could feel the belt holding my knees, but I thought something was wrong with the plane, and 'this is it.'"

"When I saw the plane still seemed to be flying all right. I thought that if I could just get one of my hands ahold of the plane I could save myself."

Greenway said his back was pressed against the side of the hatch, but his head, shoulders and both arms were outside the plane. He recalled no sensation of fright, of difficulty in breathing despite the high air speed.

He managed to grasp the hatch edge with one hand.

"All this seemed like a horribly long time," he said, "but it wasn't."

Fellow passengers grabbed Greenway by one leg and an upper arm and drew him back inside of the ship.

New Cold War Problems Now Face Kremlin

Strength Regained By World Alliance Against Communism

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—Signing of the nine-power London agreement on rearming West Germany today provided dramatic crescendo to a series of events that has pumped new unity and strength into the grand alliance against Soviet communism.

Whereas this alliance was pulling apart at the seams last spring, Secretary of State Dulles now can report to President Eisenhower a real revival of hope for an effective military system to stand against Red aggression in Europe—a system keyed to enlisting West Germany as an able ally.

Tonight some of the gains which the Soviet Union has made recently in the cold war contest with the United States show up as less threatening than they were a few weeks ago, although the final decisions are not yet in.

French Assembly Holds Key

A great deal still depends on the uncertain political impulses of France's badly divided National Assembly. French Premier Mendes-France is quoted as saying he will work for approval of the London agreements.

Over the past several weeks, at least four developments have reinvigorated the Western alliance and posed new problems for Soviet Premier Malenkov and his associates in Moscow. These are:

1. The agreement on a plan for freeing and rearming West Germany. This opens up once more a strong possibility of solving the critical European defense problem in such a way as to produce French-German cooperation.

2. Trieste settlement. The 9-year-old dispute between Italy and Yugoslavia has been substantially concluded with an agreement which is supposed to be signed this week unless there is some last minute hitch.

Indochina Agreement

3. U.S.-French agreement on Indochina. The end of the war there more than two months ago left feelings of suspicion and distrust between the United States and France.

Last Wednesday a conference of high American-French officials in Washington announced agreement on a political, economic and military program by which both nations will undertake to build a wall of strength around South Viet Nam, Cambodia and Laos.

4. Red China row averted. One of the most dangerous situations threatening the Allied Powers was a U.N. debate over Chinese membership, with Britain recognizing the Communists and the United States backing the Nationalists. Quiet but intensive British-American diplomacy averted an explosive showdown by lining up in advance of the U.N. opening Sept. 21 enough votes to stall the whole issue the rest of this year.

The United States faces another problem there. The Eisenhower-Dulles atom-for-peace proposal will also be taken up by the same committee after the disarmament program is debated. Vishinsky has already tried to lump disarmament and atomic pool questions and tie them to the Soviet project for a prior ban on super-bombs.

The President sent invitations to this year's conference to mayors of 173 cities with population of more than 75,000, to city managers of 60 other cities of the same size, and to chief executives of seven smaller cities in less populated states.

New Military Barge Made Of Plastic

A new type plastic barge, designed to meet requirements for a flat-bottomed, self-propelled craft for use on very shallow inland waterways overseas, is shown in tests at Fort Eustis, Va. The 50-foot craft is powered by two 165-hp diesel engines. It is in 15 sections so it can be shipped by air, rail or truck. Being plastic, little maintenance needs are expected.

Political Control Of House Hinges On 90 Districts

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—Whether Republicans or Democrats control the House of Representatives in the new Congress hinges on Nov. 2 election results in about 90 key districts.

These are districts that have a history of political instability, in which incumbents usually have a hard fight to hold their jobs regardless of party label.

Most of them gave the 1952 congressional winners 55 per cent or less of the total vote cast. That's why they are called marginal districts.

Demos Hope For 30-70 Gain

Party strategists are concentrating on these 90 districts. They assume that the 345 other House districts will run fairly true to form, electing about 180 Democrats and 165 Republicans.

Democrats hope to chalk up a net gain of from 30 to 70 seats, mainly in the 90 key areas, while Republicans are counting on net gains of from 10 to as high as 40.

The political lineup of the present House is 219 Republicans, 215 Democrats and 1 independent, including vacancies. All 435 House seats are at stake this year, including 3 already won by Republicans in Maine Sept. 13.

To regain control of the House, and with it power to direct the course of legislation, Democrats need a net gain of only 3 seats to reach 218 in the new Congress.

Tradition In Demos' Favor

Tradition is all in their favor. Only once in the past 100 years has the party in power failed to lose House seats in a general election in which there was no presidential contest. That was in 1934, the first off-year election after Franklin D. Roosevelt became president, when the Democrats increased their House majority.

Districts where Democrats look for gains in Republican-held areas include: Maryland 1st, 2nd and 5th; Virginia 6th, 9th and 10th, and West Virginia 4th. GOP spokesmen call their chances "excellent" for gains in the Maryland 7th and West Virginia 1st and 2nd.

The President's vacation headquarters said the sessions are being arranged at the request of the U. S. Conference of Mayors and the American Municipal Assn.

15,000-Ton Liner, Freighter Collide

HOBOKEN, N.J., Oct. 3 (AP)—The Holland-America passenger liner Maasdam glided into port today with a gash in her side after colliding with a French freighter.

Passengers calmly told how the vessels collided near Nantucket lightship off Rhode Island last night in foggy weather.

Some said they were jarred awake but went back to sleep. Nobody was reported injured in the collision involving the 15,000-ton Maasdam, which sailed yesterday for Europe with 523 passengers, and the freighter, the S.S. Tofevo.

Halleck Wants More Political Speeches By Ike

DENVER, Oct. 3 (AP)—Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck said today the party faces "a tough fight" to maintain control of Congress and he would like to see President Eisenhower make more fighting campaign speeches.

Halleck, majority leader of the House, talked to newsmen at the President's vacation headquarters after a conference with the chief executive on the political situation with respect to the November elections.

The Indiana legislator declined to say specifically whether he asked Eisenhower to step up his campaign, but Halleck did declare: "I would like to see some repetitions of the Los Angeles speech."

Ike Goes On Air Friday

That was a reference to the fighting political address the President made in Hollywood Bowl Sept. 23.

Eisenhower goes back to the political war Friday night in a nationwide radio-television address which associates say will be his hardest hitting effort of the Republican campaign to date.

But that speech and another Nov. 1 are the only political addresses Eisenhower now has scheduled for the rest of the campaign.

Halleck said that for one thing he would like to see the President go into his state of Indiana.

Halleck at his news conference dealt more with the GOP prospects regarding the House in the November election than with the Senate, but he made it plain he believes the Republicans are in for a close battle.

Halleck Confident

He did say he expects to continue being House majority leader in the new 84th Congress—a way of declaring he is confident of victory in November.

He declined, however, to go along with the prediction of Leonard W. Hall, chairman of the GOP National Committee, that the Republicans will gain 15 to 25 seats in November.

"That is more than I'd predict," Halleck said.

The President's vacation headquarters said the sessions are being arranged at the request of the U. S. Conference of Mayors and the American Municipal Assn.

Parliaments Must Ratify London Pact

Program Provides End To Occupation, German Rearming

LONDON, Oct. 3 (AP)—The United States and eight Western Allies signed historic agreements today to end the occupation of West Germany and let 50 million free Germans raise an army to buttress the West's defenses against Communist aggression.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and ministers of the other eight countries affixed their signatures in a friendly, 11-minute ceremony in the drawing room of Lancaster House, within sight of ruins left by German bombs only nine years ago.

"We have built well for the future of Europe," British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden said as the six-day conference broke up.

The agreements, which have still to be ratified by the parliaments, provide for ironclad international controls intended to prevent the new Germany from growing strong enough to menace her neighbors again.

French Premier Pierre Mendes-France "was pictured as 'four-fifths sure'" the program would win approval in the French Chamber of Deputies, which only 34 days ago turned down the European defense Community plan to get West Germany under arms. It was that rejection which sparked the present conference.

French Assembly Summoned

Upon his return to France tonight, Mendes-France immediately summoned the French National Assembly into special session for Thursday to hear his report on the London conference.

"A dream of European unity is started on the road to reality," Dulles said before leaving in a U. S. Air Force plane for Washington.

The nine ministers — from the United States, Britain, France, Italy, West Germany, Belgium, Luxembourg, the Netherlands and Canada—assigned corps of lawyers and military experts to finalize the great mass of legal and technical detail involved in setting the enemy free and controlling their military buildup.

The ministers of the Big Four—Dulles, Eden, Mendes-France and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer—arranged a meeting in Paris Oct. 20 to confirm the experts' detailed planning. All nine ministers will meet in Paris, the next day, to confirm detailed planning on arms control. The North Atlantic Treaty Organization Council of Ministers set a special meeting for Oct. 26, also in Paris, to sign and seal the admission of West Germany as the 15th member.

Then the agreements will start through the mill of the member nations' parliaments.

Known As "London Act"

Here is a summary of the conference's final plans, which will go down in history as "The London Act," an accord which alters the balance of power in Europe and brings Germany into alliance with America and other traditional enemies for the first time in modern history:

1. The United States, Britain and France agree to end the occupation of West Germany as "quickly as possible."

2. The nine nations agreed to "strengthen and extend" the five-power Brussels Alliance by associating West Germany and Italy—also an ex-enemy—as equal members.

3. The United States, Britain and France agree to end the occupation of West Germany as "quickly as possible."

The President's vacation headquarters said the sessions are being arranged at the request of the U. S. Conference of Mayors and the American Municipal Assn.

Animals Go Wild As Python Pete Returns To Zoo Home

FORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 3 (AP)—The elephants trumpeted, the hyena screamed and Al and Harriet, the chimpanzees, yelled when old Pete the python came back home to his Forest Park Zoo home today.

After 15 days on the lam, old Pete just appeared at 4 a.m. CST in the dead leaves and dusty dirt behind the tropical bird cage about 125 feet from his original home.

Those who heard them said the animals in the zoo went wild. They screamed, they yelled, and the cats up on the hill roared.

Harry Jackson, Pete's owner who has been sleeping on a cot in the children's zoo office, awakened. He and Ed Baker, the Negro nightwatchman at the zoo, went running out.

Jackson and Baker sighted old Pete, all 18 feet and 150 pounds of him, lying in the dust, barely moving, in the beam of his flashlight. Jackson, 54, and Baker, who is 71 and says "there isn't a snake

Vice President Of U. S.

When Dwight D. Eisenhower was elected the 34th President of the United States just two years ago, a whole new series of governmental processes, a fresh philosophy of American politics, and a new course for the nation's affairs at home and abroad came into being. This administration took office twenty months ago with a clearcut mandate from 34 million Americans to deal with four major problems.

End the Korean War and develop policies which would meet more effectively the threat to peace of aggressive, global communism.

Curb federal spending and inflation and, at the same time, reduce the overwhelming tax burden and unleash the United States economy from crippling controls.

Deal fairly and effectively with the Communist fifth column at home.

Root out the corruption that had diminished the effectiveness of our federal government and gravely impaired its usefulness in the eyes of the American people.

Pact Strengthens Free World Hand In Disarmament

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 3 (AP)—Today's nine-power agreement on Germany in London strengthened the free world's hand in what may be a fateful week of U. N. debate.

Bound by new unity across the sea, Britain and France go into the U. N. General Assembly policy debates here tomorrow with the West's first answer to apparently new Soviet disarmament proposals.

The following day the United States, Britain and France will have to make a common decision in the first East-West clash over disarmament in this Assembly. The 15-nation Assembly Steering Committee meets to decide whether the Soviet disarmament proposals offered the Assembly last week by Soviet delegate Andrei Vishinsky should become a new item on the Assembly agenda.

The steering committee is made up of the Assembly president, Eelco N. van Kleffens, the seven Assembly vice presidents and the chairmen of the Assembly's seven committees.

The Western countries are expected to stand firm against making it a new item. Their argument is that it belongs with the debate on the Disarmament Commission report already included in the Assembly work program.

Although the steering committee discussion is supposed to be only procedural, it was expected Vishinsky would dip into the substance of the question to support his demand for a separate debate on the Soviet proposals.

Full-blown disarmament debates were expected to get under way by Friday after the Assembly's 60-nation main political committee organizes and sets its order of work.

U.S. Official Undergoes Operation In Moscow

MOSCOW, Oct. 3 (AP)—U.S. Air Force Col. Charles Taylor, new air attaché here, was struck with appendicitis when he arrived here Friday and was operated on at the Moscow Polyclinic Hospital. He was reported in "good condition" today.

Mrs. Taylor said her husband was receiving good treatment and had no complaints to make. He was believed to be the first American official to undergo an operation in a Soviet hospital.

The Administration Reports

Major U.S. Problems Dealt With Effectively, Nixon Declares

This is the first in a series of articles by top executives in the Eisenhower administration, and offered by the New York Herald Tribune Syndicate to some 1,600 daily newspapers throughout the country as a public service. The articles are designed as mid-term reports to the American people on the administration's accomplishments and plans.

By RICHARD M. NIXON Vice President of U. S.

When Dwight D. Eisenhower was elected the 34th President of the United States just two years ago, a whole new series of government processes, a fresh philosophy of American politics, and a new course for the nation's affairs at home and abroad came into being. This administration took office twenty months ago with a clearcut mandate from 34 million Americans to deal with four major problems.

End the Korean War and develop policies which would meet more effectively the threat to peace of aggressive, global communism.

Curb federal spending and inflation and, at the same time, reduce the overwhelming tax burden and unleash the United States economy from crippling controls.

Deal fairly and effectively with the Communist fifth column at home.

Root out the corruption that had diminished the effectiveness of our federal government and gravely

impaired its usefulness in the eyes of the American people.

The Situation Then Meanwhile, cynicism, confusion, dissatisfaction, and economic dangers were abroad in our land. So was heartbreak, and, in many quarters, a sort of hopelessness.

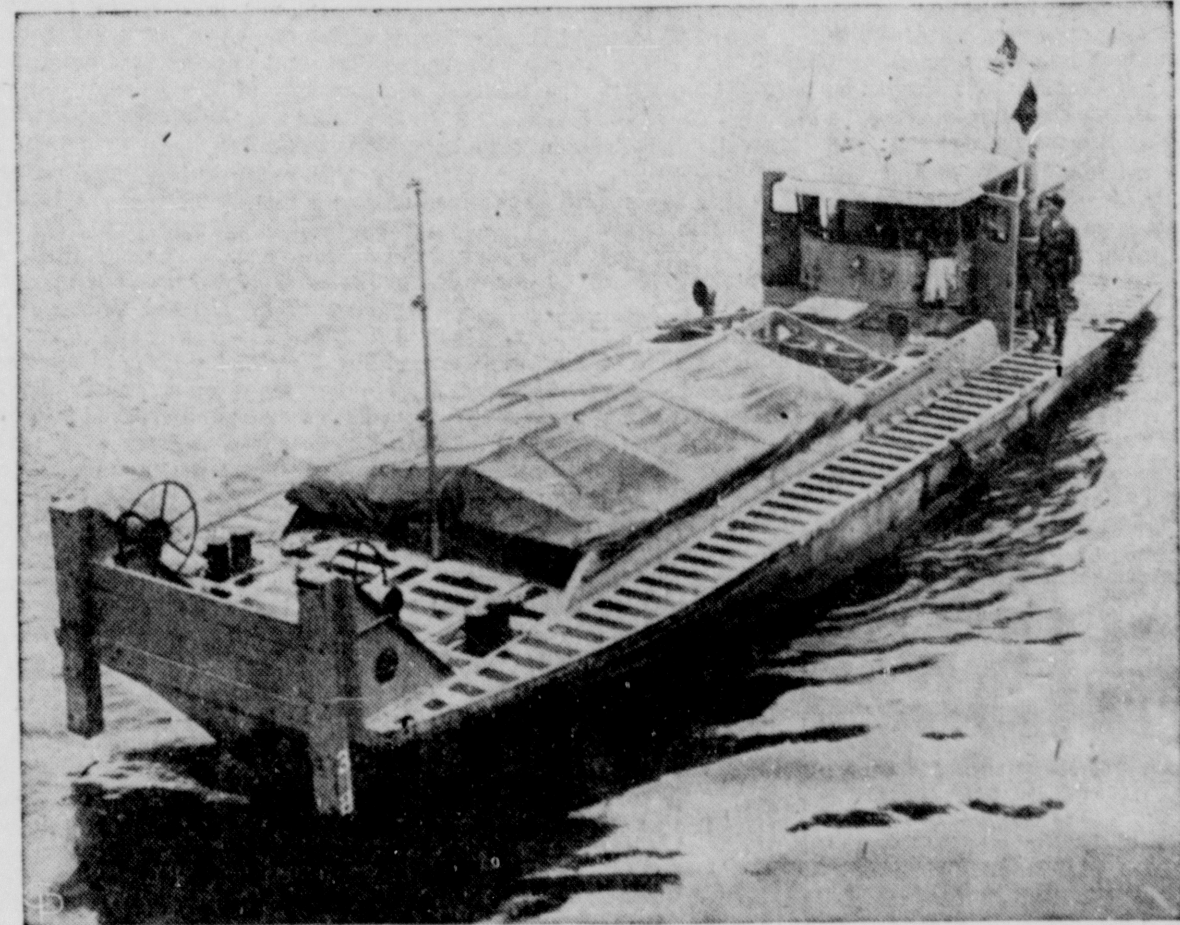

Men of high courage assumed the duties of setting our house in order and re-creating our prestige overseas.

First, of course, there was the President himself, selected to lead the task force because of his acknowledged ability to lead, and his unparalleled experience in solving great problems.

Around him, the President gathered a dedicated team of men and women of outstanding ability who believed as he did: in the dignity and rights of free Americans, in integrity, efficiency, and thrift.

Alongside him, too, stood the leadership of the 83d Congress, the policy-makers who subscribed wholeheartedly to the President's belief in liberalism in human dealings, and honest conservatism in economic affairs.

Record Of First 20 Months The record shows what happened in the brief time span between the inauguration on Jan. 20, 1953 and the adjournment of Congress on Aug. 20, 1954.

New Military Barge Made Of Plastic

A new type plastic barge, designed to meet requirements for a flat-bottomed, self-propelled craft for use on very shallow inland waterways overseas, is shown in tests at Fort Eustis, Va. The 50-foot craft is powered by two 165-hp diesel engines. It is in 15 sections so it can be shipped by air, rail or truck. Being plastic, little maintenance needs are expected.

Political Control Of House Hinges On 90 Districts

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—Whether Republicans or Democrats control the House of Representatives in the new Congress hinges on Nov. 2 election results in about 90 key districts.

These are districts that have a history of political instability, in which incumbents usually have a hard fight to hold their jobs regardless of party label.

Most of them gave the 1952 congressional winners 55 per cent or less of the total vote cast. That's why they are called marginal districts.

Demos Hope For 30-70 Gain

Party strategists are concentrating on these 90 districts. They assume that the 346 other House districts will run fairly true to form, electing about 180 Democrats and 165 Republicans.

Democrats hope to chalk up a net gain of from 30 to 70 seats, mainly in the 90 key areas, while Republicans are counting on net gains of from 10 to as high as 40.

The political lineup of the present House is 219 Republicans, 215 Democrats and 1 independent, including vacancies. All 435 House seats are at stake this year, including 3 already won by Republicans in Maine Sept. 13.

To regain control of the House, and with it power to direct the course of legislation, Democrats need a net gain of only 3 seats to reach 218 in the new Congress.

Tradition In Demos' Favor

Tradition is all in their favor. Only once in the past 100 years has the party in power failed to lose House seats in a general election in which there was no presidential contest. That was in 1934.

The first off-year election after Franklin D. Roosevelt became president, when the Democrats increased their House majority.

Districts where Democrats look for gains in Republican-held areas include: Maryland 1st, 2nd and 5th; Virginia 6th, 9th and 10th, and West Virginia 4th. GOP spokesmen call their chances "excellent" for gains in the Maryland 7th and West Virginia 1st and 2nd.

Quake Rocks Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Oct. 3 (AP)—A sharp, swaying earthquake — rated close to disaster intensity — rocked a 1,000-mile area of the lower Alaska mainland early today, causing near panic and minor damage, but no reported casualties.

15,000-Ton Liner, Freighter Collide

HOBOKEN, N.J., Oct. 3 (AP)—The Holland-America passenger liner Maasdam glided into port today with a gash in her side after colliding with a French freighter.

Passengers calmly told how the vessels collided near Nantucket lightship off Rhode Island last night in foggy weather.

Some said they were jarred awake but went back to sleep. Nobody was reported injured in the collision involving the 15,000-ton Maasdam, which sailed yesterday for Europe with 523 passengers, and the freighter, the S.S. Totevo.

The freighter was reported in drydock in Brooklyn. No comment was immediately available from her master.

17,500 Useless Jobs Abolished By Defense Dept.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—A House committee reported today the Defense Department has abolished 17,500 useless jobs the last nine months and cut an estimated $5 million dollars a year from its payrolls.

Most of the cuts thus far have been made through a job reappraisal by the Air Force, and a "much larger additional saving" is expected when the Army and Navy report further progress in their own work, the House Civil Service Committee said.

Results of a committee campaign against the military practice of dual staffing—assigning both uniformed and civilian personnel to the same job—were announced by Rep. Corbett (R-Pa.), chairman of a subcommittee riding hard on the job cleanup project.

The figures represented the results of nine months of cooperative effort by the committee and Defense Department in cleaning out military surpluses, and revising manpower requirements.

Boy Stricken With Polio At Sea Remains Serious

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Oct. 3 (AP)—Little David Lee Oliver of Springfield, Ill., stricken with polio on the high seas last week, was still in serious condition today at Southampton Chest Hospital.

A hospital bulletin said the 4-year-old's condition was unchanged. His parents, Sgt. and Mrs. David Oliver, remained at his bedside.

Halleck Wants More Political Speeches By Ike

DENVER, Oct. 3 (AP)—Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck said today the party faces "a tough fight" to maintain control of Congress and he would like to see President Eisenhower make more fighting campaign speeches.

Halleck, majority leader of the House, talked to newsmen at the President's vacation headquarters after a conference with the chief executive on the political situation with respect to the November elections.

The Indiana legislator declined to say specifically whether he asked Eisenhower to step up his campaign, but Halleck did declare: "I would like to see some repetitions of the Los Angeles speech."

Ike Goes On Air Friday

That was a reference to the fighting political address the President made in Hollywood Bowl Sept. 23.

Eisenhower goes back to the political wars Friday night in a nationwide radio-television address which associates say will be his hardest hitting effort of the Republican campaign to date.

But that speech and another Nov. 1 are the only political addresses Eisenhower now has scheduled for the rest of the campaign.

Halleck said that for one thing he would like to see the President go into his state of Indiana.

Halleck at his news conference dealt more with the GOP prospects regarding the House in the November election than with the Senate, but he made it plain he believes the Republicans are in for a close battle.

Halleck Confident

He did say he expects to continue being House majority leader in the new 84th Congress—a way of declaring he is confident of victory in November.

He declined, however, to go along with the prediction of Leonard W. Hall, chairman of the GOP National Committee, that the Republicans will gain 15 to 25 seats in November.

"That is more than I'd predict," Halleck said.

Parliaments Must Ratify London Pact

Program Provides End To Occupation, German Rearming

LONDON, Oct. 3 (AP)—The United States and eight Western Allies signed historic agreements today to end the occupation of West Germany and let 50 million free Germans raise an army to buttress the West's defenses against Communist aggression.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and ministers of the other eight countries affixed their signatures in a friendly, 11-minute ceremony in the drawing room of Lancaster House, within sight of ruins left by German bombs only nine years ago.

"We have built well for the future of Europe," British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden said as the six-day conference broke up.

The agreements, which have still to be ratified by the parliaments, provide for ironclad international controls intended to prevent the new Germany from growing strong enough to menace her neighbors again.

French Premier Pierre Mendes-France was pictured as "four-fifths sure" the program would win approval in the French Chamber of Deputies, which only 34 days ago turned down the European defense Community plan to get West Germany under arms. It was that rejection which sparked the present conference.

French Assembly Summoned Upon his return to France tonight, Mendes-France immediately summoned the French National Assembly into special session for Thursday to hear his report on the London conference.

"A dream of European unity is started on the road to reality," Dulles said before leaving in a U. S. Air Force plane for Washington.

The nine ministers — from the United States, Britain, France, Italy, West Germany, Belgium, Luxembourg, the Netherlands and Canada — assigned corps of lawyers and military experts to finalize the great mass of legal and technical detail involved in setting the enemy free and controlling their military buildup.

The ministers of the Big Four — Dulles, Eden, Mendes-France and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer — arranged a meeting in Paris Oct. 20 to confirm the experts' detailed planning. All nine ministers will meet in Paris, the next day, to confirm detailed planning on arms control. The North Atlantic Treaty Organization Council of Ministers set a special meeting for Oct. 26, also in Paris, to sign and seal the admission of West Germany as the 15th member.

Then the agreements will start through the mill of the member nations' parliaments.

Known As "London Act"

Here is a summary of the conference's final plans, which will go down in history as "The London Act," an accord which alters the balance of power in Europe and brings Germany into alliance with America and other traditional enemies for the first time in modern history:

1. The United States, Britain and France agree to end the occupation of West Germany as "quickly as possible."

2. The nine nations agreed to "strengthen and extend" the five-power Brussels Alliance by associating West Germany and Italy — also an ex-enemy — as equal members.

3. The United States, Britain and France agree to end the occupation of West Germany as "quickly as possible."

4. The nine nations agreed to "strengthen and extend" the five-power Brussels Alliance by associating West Germany and Italy — also an ex-enemy — as equal members.

5. The United States, Britain and France agree to end the occupation of West Germany as "quickly as possible."

Animals Go Wild As Python Pete Returns To Zoo Home

FORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 3 (AP)—The elephants trumpeted, the hyena screamed and Al and Harriet, the chimpanzees, yelled when old Pete the python came back home to his Forest Park Zoo home today.

After 15 days on the lam, old Pete just appeared at 4 a.m. CST in the dead leaves and dusty dirt behind the tropical bird cage about 125 feet from his original home.

Those who heard them said the animals in the zoo went wild. They screamed, they yelled, and the cats up on the hill roared.

Harry Jackson, Pete's owner who has been sleeping on a cot in the children's zoo office, awakened. He and Ed Baker, the Negro nightwatchman at the zoo, went running out.

Jackson and Baker sighted old Pete, all 18 feet and 150 pounds of him, lying in the dust, barely moving, in the beam of his flashlight. Jackson, 34, and Baker, who is 71 and says "there isn't a snake alive I'm scared of," caught old Pete. By 4:55 a.m. they had him in a wire cage and later in his regular wooden cage with the thick glass front windows.

Old Pete was covered with morning dew and gleamed in the light when Jackson first saw him.

"I couldn't believe at first it was my snake," Jackson said. "But Pete had been having trouble with his mouth, had a canker mouth and held one side a peculiar way. When he turned his head and looked at me, I knew Pete."

Hours later Jackson tried to swab Pete's mouth out with cotton-tipped sticks, and old Pete just up and bit him—put five tooth bites in Jackson's right thumb. The wounds weren't serious.

Garrett County Demo Club Airs Plight Of Miners

An open letter to Gov. T. B. McKeldin and Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde from the Southern Garrett County Democrat Club asks "why have you forgotten Garrett County's and Maryland's coal miners and operators?"

The letter, signed by D. M. Worthington, president, states that "we feel our people have been bypassed by our state government and our plight ignored by our representatives in the federal government."

The group was speaking of the recent announcement concerning the shipment of 10,000,000 tons of American coal to Korea by the Foreign Operations Administration headed by Harold Stassen.

The letter points to a decline in production of coal in Garrett County from 1,004,000 tons in 1946 to 221,000 tons in 1953. Allegany County's drop in production was from 1,028,000 to 325,000 tons in the same period.

The letter stated that during the period mentioned a total of 532 Garrett countians and 797 Allegany countians lost their only means of livelihood. One out of every three persons employed in Garrett County in 1946 is now jobless or has moved away, it added.

If only one-twentieth of the shipment to Korea would be allotted to Garrett County, says the letter, it would mean enough to give jobs to all the miners for one full year.

A promised study of Maryland's possibilities for producing synthetic fuels from coal is termed too far off to do any good now. "We do not know whether it is too late to be included in the Korean order, nor do we know what the future orders for coal might be, but you, Gov. McKeldin and Rep. Hyde, should be informed on these matters," the letter declared.

"We needed help four years ago and a year ago," the letter reminds Gov. McKeldin, "so why is nothing done until an election year?"

3 Draft Boards To Induct 17

Seventeen registrants of Allegany County draft boards will report October 14 in Fairmont (W. Va.) for induction into the armed forces.

P. Emmett Fahey, clerk coordinator here, said the following men will leave the Post Office building at 7 a. m. via Blue Ridge bus:

Board 27—Thomas Eugene Gray, 942 Gay Street; Kenneth William Smith, 7 Boone Street; Joseph Henry Gobell, 432 Arch Street, and John Wayne Sloan, 802 Brookfield Avenue.

Board 28—Ronald Eugene Householder, city; Martin VanBuren Liedy Jr., RD 3, Cumberland, and Gary Eugene Lease, 213 Pear Street. Inductees in both boards are volunteers.

Fahey said Board 29 received no induction order.

Departing the same day from Frostburg Board 30 for military service are:

Richard T. Karlowa, John J. Mathias and John J. Shertzer, Frostburg; Samuel L. Long, John T. Brode and Raymond T. Sparto, Eckhart; Ronald E. Davis, Borden Shaft; Richard B. Carpenter, Westernport; Alfred M. Crowe, Crownsville, formerly of Mt. Savage, and Floyd N. Fritzell, Washington. The group will be picked up at the Gunter Hotel by the bus leaving Cumberland.

According to Fahey, 13 registrants in local boards will accompany the contingent for pre-induction physical examinations. Two others will be re-examined.

Miller Farm Site Of Corn Demonstration

A field demonstration of eight plots of hybrid corn on the Clarence Miller farm near Midland, will be held next Friday at 2 p. m. Joseph Newcomer, agronomist at the University of Maryland, will be at the Miller farm to check the yield from the test plots.

Farmers of the area are being invited to attend.

Newcomer said the eight varieties of hybrid corn will provide information as to the best type for this area.

Customers To Get Free Silver Dollars

When the doors of Shinnamon's Shoe Store, 61 Baltimore Street, are opened this morning the proprietor, Louis V. Shinnamon, will be waiting just inside the entrance to give one new silver dollar to each of the first 25 customers. Shinnamon is giving the money away to mark his tenth anniversary in business, and tomorrow marks the opening day of a week-long sale.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

(Editor's Note: A year ago, in this column, Bob Considine told the story of America's daily newspaper, and the miracle each one represented as it was delivered to your door or picked up at your newsstand. The article won nationwide acclaim. It was on the occasion of National Newspaper Week reprinted and re-published thousands of times and entered in The Congressional Record. Today, Considine begins a series of columns telling the story of the origins of newspapers and their growth in the U. S. A. as bulwarks of freedom since the first fumbling efforts of the Seventeenth Century.)

NEW YORK (INS) — This is Newspaper Week. As one of the nation's millions of daily paper buyers you may be interested in some of the work and material that went into the creation and refinement of the journal you now hold in your hand. We'll start from the beginning.

The paper it is printed on once was a tree. A fortune was invested in protecting that tree from fire and disease. It was felled, de-limbed and de-barked with equipment that cost more than your automobile. It was dragged through forest trails by tractors that cost more than your house, floated down a river and crushed into pulp by the massive jaws of a multi-million dollar paper-mill.

Unbleached sulphite pulp, obtained by cooking chips of wood in chemical liquors, was added to give your paper more strength and enable the print and pictures to stand out in fine detail. The blended porridge that once was a tree was spread over a wide screen-like belt moving into the "wet end" of the paper-making machine. As it moved along great pumps sucked the water from the pulp. Then huge hot revolving drums ironed the matter into paper. In our business it is called newsprint. We'll buy nearly 6,000,000 tons of it this year at a whopping $126 a ton.

But we couldn't get along without it, nor could the world. The invention of the paper-making machine and the utilization of wood as the source of pulp, had profound effect on the spread of knowledge and trade. Without the machine and the forests that feed it, only the rich could afford to read the news.

For many centuries after papyrus was invented in China (105 A. D.) the essential base was rags. Strips of cloth were boiled and beaten to a pulp and laboriously processed by hand and hot plate. The Moors brought the art to Europe in 1150, and the next three centuries saw paper-making guilds formed in Italy, France, Germany and England. William Rittenhouse of Germantown, Pa., produced the colonies' first paper in 1690.

The first paper-making machine was built by Nicholas-Louis Robert, a French paper-mill inspector, in 1797. He invented it more or less in spite, for he was tired of listening to the endless arguments that swirled like steam around the rag-pulp vats of the guilds he visited.

Two London stationers, Henry and Sealy Fourdrinier, improved on Robert's invention in 1803 and their names still stand on most paper-making machines.

The world had the priceless machine but didn't know what to feed it for half a century. Rags were still the meat and potatoes of the paper-making business. The shortage was such that in 1818 it became a criminal offense in England to produce a newspaper larger than 22 by 32 inches. During the Civil War newsprint jumped to 28 cents a pound and papers sold for what would today be 50 or 60 cents.

A vivid highlight to the rag paper shortage of those war years is contained in Knapp's "Paper-making: The History and Technique of an Ancient Craft." It relates:

"Rags were so valuable that enterprising eastern mill operators imported shiploads of mummies from Egypt and used the linen wrappings to make paper."

The literature of the time contained many references to what seemed the unbreakable alliance between paper and rags. For example: "The rag which, perchance, but lately fluttered on the beggar's frock, is now part and parcel of a great daily, doing its part in instructing, amusing, warning, and advising a continent."

Newsprint dropped dizzily in price with the increased use of wood pulp. The "penny press" emerged and the newspaper business became an industry of incalculable influence. Circulations skyrocketed between the close of the Civil War and World War I and have shown steady increases ever since.

There are now 327 daily morning papers. Their circulation is 21,412,474. There are 1,458 evening papers, with 33,059,812 daily buyers. 544 Sunday papers (circulation 50,892,352) and 7,705 weeklies with a circulation of 21,407,568. Newsprint costs have jumped from $41 a ton in 1933 to the present $126. There are other costs, be-

Walsh Named To Head State Bar Association

William C. Walsh, former Attorney General of Maryland, has been appointed chairman of the committee on judicial appointments for the Maryland State Bar Association.

Walsh was notified of his appointment by Judge Siedman Prescott of Montgomery County Circuit Court, president of the state association.

He succeeds William J. McWilliams, Annapolis.

Between the time a tree is felled and it completes its magic journey to your hands, fourteen hundred pound spools of newsprint, containing six miles of paper each, had to be delivered to your newspaper and fed into costly presses which swallowed each spool in 20 minutes.

Your completed paper had to be baled, carried to a dispersal point, and delivered. And in exchange for a few cents you possess what once was tree but now is transmuted into news, comment, advice, comfort, alarm, joy, grief, laughs, tears, thrills, shudders, tragedies, triumphs and hope of a better day—and edition—to come. ## 3 Draft Boards To Induct 17

Seventeen registrants of Allegany County draft boards will report October 14 in Fairmont (W. Va.) for induction into the armed forces.

P. Emmett Fahey, clerk coordinator here, said the following men will leave the Post Office building at 7 a. m. via Blue Ridge bus:

Board 27—Thomas Eugene Gray, 942 Gay Street; Kenneth William Smith, 7 Boone Street; Joseph Henry Gobel, 432 Arch Street, and John Wayne Sloan, 802 Brookfield Avenue.

Board 28—Ronald Eugene Householder, city; Martin VanBuren Liedy Jr., RD 3, Cumberland, and Gary Eugene Lease, 213 Pear Street. Inductees in both boards are volunteers.

Fahey said Board 29 received no induction order.

Departing the same day from Frostburg Board 30 for military service are:

Richard T. Karlowa, John J. Mathias and John J. Shertzer, Frostburg; Samuel L. Long, John T. Brode and Raymond T. Spataro, Eckhart; Ronald E. Davis, Borden Shaft; Richard B. Carpenter, Westernport; Alfred M. Crowe, Crownsville, formerly of Mt. Savage, and Floyd N. Frizzell, Washington. The group will be picked up at the Gunter Hotel by the bus leaving Cumberland.

According to Fahey, 13 registrants in local boards will accompany the contingent for pre-induction physical examinations. Two others will be re-examined.

Miller Farm Site Of Corn Demonstration

A field demonstration of eight plots of hybrid corn on the Clarence Miller farm near Midland will be held next Friday at 2 p. m.

Joseph Newcomer, agronomist at the University of Maryland, will be at the Miller farm to check the yield from the test plots.

Farmers of the area are being invited to attend.

Newcomer said the eight varieties of hybrid corn will provide information as to the best type for this area.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

(Editor's Note: A year ago, in this column, Bob Considine told the story of America's daily newspaper, and the miracle each one represented as it was delivered to your door or picked up at your newstand. The article won nationwide acclaim, was the occasion of National Newspaper Week reprinted and re-published thousands of times and entered in The Congressional Record. Today, Considine begins a series of columns telling the story of the origins of newspapers and their growth in the U. S. A. as bulwarks of freedom since the first fumbling efforts of the Seventeenth Century.)

NEW YORK (INS) — This is Newspaper Week. As one of the nation's millions of daily paper buyers you may be interested in some of the work and material that went into the creation and refinement of the journal you now hold in your hand. We'll start from the beginning.

The paper it is printed on once was a tree. A fortune was invested in protecting that tree from fire and disease. It was felled, de-limbed and de-barked with equipment that cost more than your automobile. It was dragged through forest trails by tractors that cost more than your house, floated down a river and crushed into pulp by the massive jaws of a multi-million dollar paper-mill.

Unbleached sulphite pulp, obtained by cooking chips of wood in chemical liquors, was added to give your paper more strength and enable the print and pictures to stand out in fine detail. The blended porridge that once was a tree trunk was spread over a wide screen-like belt moving into the "wet end" of the paper-making machine. As it moved along great pumps sucked the water from the pulp. Then huge hot revolving drums ironed the matter into paper. In our business it is called newsprint. We'll buy nearly 6,000,000 tons of it this year at a whopping $126 a ton.

But we couldn't get along without it, nor could the world. The invention of the paper-making machine and the utilization of wood as the source of pulp, had profound effect on the spread of knowledge and trade. Without the machine and the forests that feed it, only the rich could afford to read the news.

For many centuries after, paper was invented in China 105 A. D. The essential base was rags. Strips of cloth were boiled and beaten to a pulp and laboriously processed by hand and hot plate. The Moors brought the art to Europe in 1150, and the next three centuries saw paper-making guilds formed in Italy, France, Germany and England. William Rittenhouse of Germantown, Pa., produced the colonies' first paper in 1690.

The first paper-making machine was built by Nicholas-Louis Robert, a French paper-mill inspector, in 1797. He invented it more or less in spite, for he was tired of listening to the endless arguments that swirled like steam around the rag-pulp vats of the guilds he visited. Two London stationers, Henry and Sealy Fourdrinier, improved on Robert's invention in 1803 and their names still stand on most paper-making machines.

The world had the priceless machine but didn't know what to feed it for half a century. Rags were still the meat and potatoes of the paper-making business. The shortage was such that in 1818 it became a criminal offense in England to produce a newspaper larger than 22 by 32 inches. During the Civil War newsprint jumped to 25 cents a pound and papers sold for what would today be 50 or 60 cents.

A vivid highlight to the rag paper shortage of those war years is contained in Knapp's "Paper-making: The History and Technique of an Ancient Craft." It relates:

"Rags were so valuable that enterprising eastern mill operators imported shiploads of mummies from Egypt and used the linen wrappings to make paper."

The literature of the time contains many references to what seemed the unbreakable alliance between paper and rags. For example: "The rag which, perchance, but lately fluttered on the beggar's frock, is now part and parcel of a great daily, doing its part in instructing, amusing, warning, and advising a continent."

Newsprint dropped dizzily in price with the increased use of wood pulp. The "penny press" emerged and the newspaper business became an industry of incalculable influence. Circulations skyrocketed between the close of the Civil War and World War I and have shown steady increases ever since.

There are now 327 daily morning papers. Their circulation is 21,412,474. There are 1,458 evening papers, with 33,059,812 daily buyers. 544 Sunday papers (circulation 50,892,352) and 7,705 weeklies with a circulation of 21,407,568. Newsprint costs have jumped from $41 a ton in 1933 to the present $126. There are other costs, be-

Segregation Becomes Issue In Md. 1st District Campaign

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3 (AP)—The battle sounds from Maryland's other congressional campaigns were drowned out today by a rapid-fire exchange between 1st district candidates on the school segregation issue.

State Sen. Edward Turner, Queen Annes County Democrat trying to unseat Republican Rep. Edward T. Miller, declared himself in favor of continuing separate schools for Negroes and whites.

Miller called this "an appeal to emotional prejudices in an irresponsible and unprincipled effort to secure votes."

Throughout the week the other 11 congressional candidates — Democratic Rep. Edward A. Garmatz is unopposed in the 3rd district — had discussed a variety of issues. They ranged from unemployment to the Eisenhower tax reduction program. But, with racial disorders erupting in Baltimore and Milford, Del., the segregation question raised by Turner attracted greater statewide attention than all the others combined.

Turner, seeking to represent Maryland's nine Eastern Shore counties in Congress, said in a formal statement he feels the people in that district "are not ready" for desegregation.

"I am unalterably opposed to the Supreme Court's decision (that separate schools for Negroes are unconstitutional)," he said.

He proposed State legislation to include the operation of schools under the State's broad police powers for preservation of health, welfare and safety.

Under a companion law local boards of education would have "the right to determine as a fact whether people's health, welfare and safety would be in danger by integration in the public schools," he suggested.

Should the education boards find such danger they could then "order segregation for the public schools."

Miller, whose election to Congress in 1946 broke a long string of Democratic successes on the shore, replied he had "no quarrel with determining the integration problem at the local level."

The GOP congressman said he was "shocked and indignant that Sen. Turner has seen fit to lower the level of the campaign by injecting the racial issue."

Expressway Complete

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3 (AP)—The last 12 miles of a dual-lane expressway stretching west from Baltimore to the Monocacy River, just east of Frederick, will be dedicated Oct. 21.

Priest Found Dead In His Burning Car

SCHROON LAKE, N. Y., Oct. 3 (AP)—The Rev. Ambrose Hyland, 54, who was instrumental in building the first church within prison walls in the United States, was found dead early today in his burning automobile.

Authorities said the Roman Catholic priest apparently had pulled off the highway to take a nap and had dropped a lighted cigar in the car.

Coroner John S. Miller reported death was due to inhalation of smoke and flames and third-degree burns.

Card Game Argument Ends In Woman's Death

NORBECK, Md., Oct. 3 (AP)—William Adams, 34, of Norbeck, was in jail today charged with murder in the slaying of a 21-year-old woman during an argument over a card game, Montgomery County police reported.

Detective Sgt. Frank Griggs said Betty Eleanor McKelvin, Adams' wife, was taking part in the card game early yesterday when the argument broke out.

He said the McKelvin woman was struck by a blast from a shotgun just as she jumped into a car in an attempt to flee. She was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. Frank J. Broschart, county medical examiner.

Fisherman Killed By Boat Propellor

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 3 (AP)—City police said today Dennis J. Wright, 26, of Catonsville was killed accidentally Saturday when he fell from the bow of an 18-foot boat and was struck by the propellor.

The blades of the propellor severed his jugular vein, police said.

The 26-year-old Wright was fishing with John Angel of Catonsville and Paul Hood of Baltimore at the mouth of the Severn River when the accident occurred. Angel and Hood were quoted that he was sitting on the bow when he suddenly lost his balance and fell into the water.

They recovered his body almost immediately. He was pronounced dead at Anne Arundel General Hospital.

West German Trade Unions Meet Today

FRANKFURT, Germany, Oct. 3 (AP)—West German trade unions, gripped by a new spirit of militancy, meet here tomorrow for decisions that could definitely end more than 20 years of industrial peace.

About 400 delegates, representing six million members of 16 separate unions, convene in a Congress of the West German Trade Unions Federation (DGB) to lay down labor policies for the next two years.

Warmed up by strikes last month of 220,000 metal workers in Bavaria and 15,000 transport and public utility employees in Hamburg, the Congress will discuss as main topic what measures should be taken to obtain further wage increases.

Wilson Contract Statement Draws Jackson's Fire

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.), who last week criticized the volume of defense contracts awarded to General Motors Corp., said today Secretary of Defense Wilson's answer "does not square with a number of vital facts."

Wilson commented that "the senator just doesn't know what he is talking about."

Jackson described Wilson's statement that most of the contracts merely carried out commitments made earlier by the Truman administration as "astonishing." He said "it denies what Mr. Wilson himself has been saying since he took office—that he brought greater economy and efficiency into the administration of the Defense Department."

Wilson, boarding a plane for Denver where he will confer with President Eisenhower tomorrow, was asked for comment on Jackson's latest statement. He said the senator "would seem to be purposely distorting the truth," and added:

"Actually, the Department of Defense, without fear or favor, is doing what is best in the interest of national defense."

Jackson's statement a week ago said that in the first 18 months of the Eisenhower administration defense contracts awarded to General Motors had increased by $1,704,000,000, while for the rest of the automobile industry cancellations had exceeded new awards by $95 million dollars.

Wilson, former president of General Motors, subsequently issued a statement saying the criticism was based on lack of knowledge and a misunderstanding of the facts.

Sewer 'Explorers' Swept Into River By Rush Of Rain

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 3 (AP)—Four howling, frightened boys, exploring a storm sewer here today, were rescued from the Olentangy River after a rush of rain from a sudden storm swept them hundreds of yards through the large pipe, then dumped them in the river.

Two men, who had just packed their fishing gear after the storm broke, said they heard screaming inside the sewer shortly before one boy came sliding out. They pulled him to safety.

Then three other boys, clasping hands chain-fashion to stay together, were spewed out, riding the crest of the swift current that had gushed through the pipe. They were tossed into the river where they held onto a partly submerged tree.

The men, off-duty fireman George Burke, 35, and Otis Inman, 34, both of Columbus, raced for help. A fire rescue squad threw the shivering trio a rope and pulled them to shore. All were treated for exposure and released from University Hospital. They were Raymond Potts, 17; Marvin Young, 17; Dallas Carney, 14, and David Bretz, 14, all of Columbus.

Douglas Praises Watkins Report

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—Lewis W. Douglas, former ambassador to Great Britain, today described the Watkins Committee report on Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) as "one of the most notable achievements of the legislative branch of our government" in the last 30 years.

Douglas spoke at the 13th anniversary dinner of Freedom House at which CBS commentator Edward R. Murrow was given the annual Freedom House Award. Freedom House is an organization formed in memory of Wendell Willkie to promote freedom and his "one world" ideals.

Douglas referred to the Watkins Committee report in a prepared speech warning that "intemperances" stemming from the United States role in the world today are a test of American liberties.

He advised that "vigilance and restraint at home, temperance in our utterances, prudence in our actions, wisdom in our advice abroad, are the bulwarks of freedom."

Regarding the Watkins report, which recommended censure of Sen. McCarthy, Douglas said:

"Its quality is, happily, reminiscent of the great state papers of our past, its language and its contents restore what may have been our faltering faith in the future."

Today 27% million families have incomes of $3,000 or over—compared to only 2% million at the time of the 1940 census

Compared to 1940 Census...

12 times as many families have incomes of $3,000 or more

As American industry has stepped up its efficiency and produced more, millions of Americans have been able to earn more. This additional income has given us new opportunities. For example—

- To own our own homes. This year, American families are buying another million newly-built homes.
- To give our children more education. Compared to the year 1940, America now has 88% more high school graduates. And these are 80% more college graduates!

- To own more conveniences and comforts. More than 35 million families now own cars—25 million have television sets—34 million own electric washing machines.

- To put money aside. Americans saved five times as much money last year as in 1940. 25 million more people own life insurance.

Families are buying life insurance to guarantee a financial backlog if the father were to die.

And they are also discovering other uses—how life insurance can help in almost every part of the family's plans. For instance, to cover the mortgage . . . to pay for the children's education . . . to build a retirement program.

Today, more than half of all life insurance benefits are paid to policyholders themselves. Because of its many "living" benefits, more and more American families are finding that life insurance can bring them greater opportunity, as well as greater security.

Owned by 90 million men, women and children, life insurance is today America's most popular form of thrift.

In change there is opportunity

Today 27½ million families have incomes of $3,000 or over—compared to only 2½ million at the time of the 1940 census

Compared to 1940 Census...

12 times as many families have incomes of $3,000 or more

As American industry has stepped up its efficiency and produced more, millions of Americans have been able to earn more. This additional income has given us new opportunities. For example—

- To own our own homes. This year, American families are buying another million newly-built homes.
- To give our children more education. Compared to the year 1940, America now has 88% more high school graduates. And there are 80% more college graduates!

- To own more conveniences and comforts. More than 35 million families now own cars—28 million have television sets—34 million own electric washing machines.
- To put money aside. Americans saved five times as much money last year as in 1940. 25 million more people own life insurance.

Families are buying life insurance to guarantee a financial backlog if the father were to die.

And they are also discovering other uses—how life insurance can help in almost every part of the family's plans. For instance, to cover the mortgage . . . to pay for the children's education . . . to build a retirement program.

Today, more than half of all life insurance benefits are paid to policyholders themselves. Because of its many "living" benefits, more and more American families are finding that life insurance can bring them greater opportunity, as well as greater security.

Owned by 90 million men, women and children, life insurance is today America's most popular form of thrift.

Asian Apprehensions No Help To America

Because of a miscalculation, radioactive clouds from a hydrogen bomb explosion last March ranged far outside the patrolled area around the mid-Pacific testing site. A luckless Japanese tuna fishing vessel was in the area. The world knows the story of the subsequent battle for life the members of its crew have been making against radiation sickness. Now one of the men is dead—possibly the world's first hydrogen bomb fatality.

Americans know there was no intent to harm anyone in the tests. Japanese should know this, too. But Communist propaganda has been employed overtime to make it appear that there was a plot against Asians in all this. The Communists, aided and abetted by officials of nations such as India, picture Americans as callous opportunists who speak of peace and freedom in one breath and in the next breath vaporize whole islands and kill simple fishermen.

The Japanese have refused to permit American medical men to examine the crew members of the fishing vessel, with the exception of a brief look which was permitted Army medics after the ship reached Japan. Atomic Energy Commission medical consultants are convinced the dead man, and perhaps others in the crew, did not receive all the attention which was possible.

The Japanese government, which knows the facts, should issue a forthright statement in reply to the Communists. Certainly Japan, which had no right to expect it, should be grateful for the billions in aid extended this country since the end of World War II.

Opium

Opium was openly smoked in the years I was in China, from 1918 to 1931. It was not unusual at a dinner party for the opium pipe to be brought out, as one passes cigars in this country. There was, it is true, an international convention forbidding the opium trade and there was an Opium Suppression Bureau, but the convention was evaded and the bureau turned itself into a taxing organization.

Some of the opium was grown in China and brought down the Yangtze River in ships flying foreign flags, to prevent inspection and taxation by the Opium Suppression Bureau or by any official who had sufficient power to interfere with trade. Considerable opium was smuggled from India and Persia. What was called "white powder," opium derivatives, was imported from Japan and European countries. Once we heard of a shipment of heroin from Austria coming in tombstones which had been hollowed out for the purpose.

Today, opium and opium derivatives are being exported from Red China to American troops in Asia and to the United States. India and Pakistan continue to grow the poppy because some of their people eat opium. According to the Indian Government, opium eating will cease in that country as of December 31, 1953. This sounds much like the Volstead Act because people who are accustomed to eating opium are not likely to be able to give up a life-long habit on a certain hour of a certain day.

Harry J. Anslinger, commissioner of narcotics, said of this:

"As to opium eating, that has been the cause for large production in those countries (India and Pakistan) . . . A lot of that opium was diverted, just as smoking-opium monopolies diverted some of their opium to the United States."

As regards Red China, Commissioner Anslinger said:

" . . . Red China represents the major source of illicit traffic for the entire world, and there appears to be no intention to carry out the obligations which the Nationalist government undertook. The Nationalist government was doing a splendid job of reducing opium production. There was very little heroin that came out of China while they were in power, and every year the Nationalist government executed about 1,000 drug peddlers. I have not heard of any executions under the present regime. If anything, the trade is encouraged . . .

"A lot of this heroin from Red China is reaching the United States. A lot of it is coming into California. We have . . . arrested and convicted a very large ring which imported directly through the port of Hong Kong . . ."

Of course, to Red China, opium and heroin are commodities in trade which produce dollar exchange that can otherwise not be obtained. The exchange can be used to buy commodities in Europe, even American commodities.

Anslinger says:

" . . . In the United Nations documents submitted by most of the governments who suffer from this terrible scourge, especially Burma, Malaya, Indochina, Indonesia, and Thailand, these governments openly state the source of this heroin or opium is the Chinese mainland."

The narcotic habit is growing in the United States and its sale is well-organized and well-financed. The profits are so enormous that an occasional seizure or even an arrest may not be too helpful. Stiff prison sentences for peddlars are indicated, however, as a means for reducing their number. It ought to be a capital offense to sell a narcotic to a minor. Opium and its derivatives can demoralize a nation. The addict loses all moral sense and responsibility. If the habit is well-established, those who use narcotics will do anything to get their supply.

When we put our minds to the subject of juvenile delinquency, we must include consideration of the narcotic habit. Children as young as 14 have been picked up who use narcotics; some as young as 16 are already "pushers" among high school boys and girls.

There is only one way to handle this problem — I do not say solve it — and that is to cut off the supply. Chief Inspector Stephen P. Kennedy of the New York City Police Department supports this view. He said:

"It is imperative for proper law enforcement that the illicit sources be cut off. If not, the almost insurmountable problem of local law enforcement will continue to grow, because of the availability of the drug itself and the ease with which it can be transported and sold."

"The Hydrogen Bomb" Gets Challenged For Accuracy

By Joseph And Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

Rewriting history with a special bias is getting to be so common nowadays, that no one worries much about it any more. Every so often, however, a rewrite comes along that is really too glib and harmful to pass unchallenged.

Such is "The Hydrogen Bomb" by James R. Shepley and Clay Blair Jr. This extraordinary attack on the American scientific community has already been published in a national magazine. It is said to be due for a wide readership. But before you accept the Shepley-Blair thesis that most American scientists are soft towards communism, if not worse, just give a few minutes' thought to the following series of startling contrasts:

THE BOOK, Page 26: For a man who once claimed political naivete, (Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer demonstrated a remarkable talent for getting himself involved in 50 or more political jobs.)

THE FACTS: The Gray board specifically found that Dr. Oppenheimer never courted government employment. "Dr. Oppenheimer," wrote Gordon Gray, "served his country because it sought him."

GIVEN ANOTHER ASSIGNMENT
THE BOOK, Page 40: "Because Oppenheimer did not like (Dr. Edward Teller) personally, Teller was denied a specific job in connection with the development of the atomic bomb."

THE FACTS: At Los Alamos in wartime, Teller served in the Theoretical Division under the respected Dr. Hans Bethe. Bethe testified under oath that Teller arbitrarily refused to work "on the main line" of wartime atomic research, and that he—Bethe, not Oppenheimer—was therefore forced to give Teller another assignment.

THE BOOK, Page 48: "Soon after the war Oppenheimer proposed abandonment of (the Los Alamos) laboratory . . . and was widely quoted as suggesting that the U. S. 'give Los Alamos back to the Indians.'"

THE FACTS: On the specific ground that this was the only way to hold the laboratory together, Oppenheimer infuriated his fellow scientists by initially supporting the May-Johnson Bill for military control of the atom. The phrase quoted is torn, all bleeding, from the context of a post-war discussion about transferring the great laboratory to a different permanent site, where the scientists would be more comfortable. In the end, Oppenheimer opposed the transfer because he thought it would do more harm than good.

THE BOOK, Page 51: "Turning to another goal, Oppenheimer was the dominant author of the 1946 Acheson-Lilienthal Plan for international atomic control. As originally written, the plan . . . did not deny the Soviets the veto power."

THE FACTS: The Acheson-Lilienthal Plan contained no provisions that would have given the Soviets a veto. Nonetheless, Oppenheimer publicly suggested adding a specific provision to guard against any Soviet attempt to create a veto where none existed. This he did shortly before Bernard M. Baruch took over the control problem. He then worked closely with Baruch and with Baruch's successor, Gen. Frederick Osborn. Gen. Osborn testified as to the "hardness" of Oppenheimer's approach to the Soviets, and Baruch offered to do so.

Baering Down on The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Remember when the patriotic Democrats said that politics stopped at the water's edge? That's as good a place to drown as any.

The famous non-partisan prescription on doctor's orders was promulgated by Andy Jackson when he poured it into his whisky.

It was called drowning the miller. Otherwise watering the grog.

When they said something about politics stopping at the water's edge Jimmy Roosevelt thought they meant the beauty contest on the Boardwalk.

Jimmy got there at low tide. But managed to save one beauty from drowning. And two from wading.

We are morose to state the Democrats have skidded on their word. And are rapping the GOP foreign policy from Dan to Beersheba. Stevenson said our foreign policy was split in the middle like Dutch doors.

Stevie is the titular top of the Democrats-at-large. What he says should be considered the echo of a snapped bon-bon.

It proves that politics does not stop at the water's rim. It's a stowaway on every argosy of mar-larkey at every $100-a-dish victory smorgasbord. Otherwise why would Adlai chirp at Indianapolis, "Our inflexible program has convinced our friends that only the United States stands in the way of a peaceful world."

Bedtime Ritual Sometimes Helps In Going To Sleep

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Having trouble sleeping? If so, you may be one of the millions who have developed a fear of not getting enough sleep. If these people do not fall asleep immediately, they start worrying about not feeling up to snuff the next day and are certain their work will suffer.

The less stable individual may use insomnia as an excuse for his poor work and his underlying inadequacy serves to perpetuate sleeplessness. In most instances, the fear of obtaining too little sleep is unjustified. If we are wakeful one night, we usually make up for it the next.

Insomnia comes in three main types: Trouble falling asleep, awakening early in the morning long before the alarm is due to go off, and waking up several times during the night.

There are 101 reasons for sleeplessness. Temporary factors include grief over sickness or death in the family, worry over an impending big business deal, or an unusually hard day at the office. Discomfort produced by physical factors such as pain, indigestion, coughing, or itching will keep a person awake.

Environmental factors also play

The most fastidious and polite Briton he ever met, avers a Detroit auto magnate, is the stout fellow who was captured in darkest Africa by a band of cannibals. He watched their preparations for a special feast without batting an eyelash, and didn't even lose his composure when they lowered him into the pot and began piling up shavings and big sticks beneath it. What finally broke him down, however, was the medicine man's obvious intention to slice an onion for additional flavor in the stew.

"I'll have to ask you to desist, my good man," said the Briton. "Those blasted things always make me cry!"

American Diplomats' Careful Planning Could Make Friends Of South America

Drew Pearson

trip down the West Coast of South America.

Why Orient's Going Communist

LA PAZ, BOLIVIA — Every schoolboy knows that Christopher Columbus discovered America by mistake when he was really looking for the vast wealth of the Orient, but many adults don't even know that who followed Columbus on the North American Continent have carried his mistake much farther and have continued to bet our economic and political chips on the Orient when a much wealthier and more friendly area lays right under our nose in South America.

Some five centuries have passed since Columbus and Hendrik Hudson and a dozen other explorers examined every nook and cranny of the rivers and bays of the Western Hemisphere with a view to finding a channel to the Orient. Five centuries is a long time, and should be enough time for us to learn.

Especially we have been slow to learn that the Orient, now rapidly going Communist, is not our dish of tea. With Indo China certain to go Communist, with the tin- and rubber-producing areas of the Malays in danger, with Indonesia refusing to join us in an Asiatic defense pact, and with India increasingly anti-American it seems to me it's time for us to turn to the rich and more friendly areas of the South.

Sen. William Knowland of California, sometimes called the senator from Formosa, wants to keep on worrying about the controversial island but I see no reasons why we should go to war over it, and I do see ample reason why we should concentrate on other parts of the world. That's one reason why I am making a quick

Most of the politicians in Washington don't realize it, but the chief reason the Orient is going Communist is because the white man, taking a leaf from Columbus' notebook, exploited the Orient at the expense of the New World. In brief, most of the products we buy from the Orient were stolen from Latin America. They were transplanted to the Orient because slave labor was dirt cheap.

Labor was higher in South America. The social revolution came earlier there and now it's the social revolution which has caught up with the Orient. And in the Orient it is the rebellion against slave-labor wages that has brought communism.

To illustrate, it was a Britisher who, in 1876, smuggled the first rubber seeds out of Brazil and brought them to Ceylon, the Malays and Indonesia. Before that, rubber was king in Brazil. It built opera houses up the Amazon River. It started rubber factories for raincoats and gum boots in Mexico, but after the British began to exploit the cheap labor of Asia the rubber plantations of South America fell to rot and ruin.

That was why we spent three-quarters of a billion dollars building up synthetic rubber in the United States after Pearl Harbor, plus another quarter billion trying to encourage natural rubber development in South America. And that's why, with communism reaching down to these same Asiatic rubber plantations, we may be in for trouble again.

Lessons In Cocoa, Quinine
The same thing happened with cocoa. Chocolate and cocoa were found only in Latin America when the Spanish Conquistadors arrived, but the British transplanted it to the African Gold Coast where today, thanks to cheap labor, it produces more than Latin America.

It was the Dutch who picked up the cinchona or quinine tree from Peru in 1854 and transplanted it to the Dutch East Indies. Since then and until World War II the Dutch had a near monopoly on quinine and as a result of the Japanese invasion the United States found itself without quinine.

We rushed madly into Latin America to plant cinchona trees after Pearl Harbor, just as we tried to encourage hemp production and as we tried to persuade Bolivian tin miners to produce more tin.

Karl Bickel, former head of the United Press, was enlisted by the Nelson Rockefeller Cultural Relations Office to speed up sisal production in Central America to replace hemp, and we demanded that the Chilean government sell all its copper to us and that Cuba give us all its sugar.

Then, as the war ended, we diminished our purchases, dropped our prices, and in many cases went back to buying from the precarious and distant Orient. Naturally this caused depression, unemployment, and the danger of communism in Latin America.

Simultaneously, our Marshall Plan funds in some cases were siphoned off to build up Latin-American competition in Asia and especially Africa. Money sent to Europe under the Marshall Plan released other capital which went to build up French, British and Dutch investments in Asian and African tropics.

The chief competitor of Brazil today, for instance, is African coffee, which has had a tremendous increase and is one reason for Brazil's economic difficulties.

Fingers Crossed

These are some of the reasons why the average Latin American, though still reasonably friendly to the United States, nevertheless keeps his economic fingers crossed. He sees the possibility of a great noncompetitive two-way trade in tropical products which we can't produce in the U. S. for manufactured products which he can't produce.

But, to put across this trade plus the cultural and political ties that should go with it, the United States will have to do a lot more careful planning than goes with our rather haphazard, hit-and-miss good neighbor policy today.

Peace And Prosperity

By Roger W. Babson

BARBON PARK, Mass. — What we need more than anything in this country if we want both peace and prosperity is a better recognition of the law of supply and demand.

A Lesson From 1933

Many people have indicated to me in recent months a kind of fatalism about our economic outlook. They seem to feel that prosperity can be maintained only in a war economy. Perhaps this is because it has been so many years since we have prospered without war. A lesson that we learn from the recession which started in the summer of 1933 is that we can have both peace and prosperity if we will adjust ourselves to the law of supply and demand.

But a lot of research must be done on consumer attitudes, on finding out what makes people buy, on how to create wants and needs, and how to develop appreciably more effective selling. This especially applies to all merchants. These are the ones who determine employment and business. I wish I had a five-dollar bill for every person I have recently heard say that he would buy a new car if only someone would really try to sell him one.

Lessons From The Past

During the peace years from 1929 through 1940, we lost in national output of both goods and services better than $600 billions when measured by 1933 prices. This was about twice what World War II cost us! Our real trouble during those unhappy years was that the buying power of our people failed to keep pace with our productive know-how. For the law of supply and demand to work freely in peacetime, the benefits of new inventions and new methods must be passed along to the worker in the form of higher wages and to the consumer in the form of lower prices, so that the public will be able to buy the product of our increased capacity. This surely requires spending more money on advertising.

Out of our experience in two world wars we have learned that the law of supply and demand, although suspended during wartime, must never be forgotten. We have learned that only by curtailing civilian demand can we meet military needs effectively, and save as many lives as possible. The trouble comes, however, when we try to return to a peacetime economy without stimulating civilian demand.

Your Part In Prosperity

Everybody knows that when the demand for anything becomes great, prices go up until production catches up. Remember what electric refrigerators, radios, and TV sets first cost. Look at the current asking price for color TV! When a smart businessman sees his colleagues making money by the fistful, he gets into the act too. Then as more goods are produced and more is spent on advertising, prices start to fall, people go out and buy, and more are employed.

Instead of letting business take this course after World War II, government subsidy and regulation tried to keep business good by holding prices high in the face of declining demand. Pretty soon inflation ballooned our whole price structure. The subsequent recession was in part a process of readjustment to this mistaken attempt to keep prices high.

Work For The Consumer

Whether or not we will have another crash depends on the kind of producers and merchants who make up our economy. The way of economic salvation is to work harder, produce better products at lower cost, and then sell harder than ever before. New markets for new products must be developed. When a market is lost, the sales organization had better find another market rather than appeal to the government.

I forecast that research must be encouraged to keep a concern or a city in a competitively strong position—product research, selling research, and consumer research. Salaries must keep pace with the demand. The law of supply and demand will require flexibility and adaptability by all of us. But, if we want both peace and prosperity, we will learn how to live under a free working law of supply and demand. This law we can no more change than we can change the weather.

THE FACTS: The Gray board specifically found that Dr. Oppenheimer never courted government employment. "Dr. Oppenheimer," wrote Gordon Gray, "served his country because it sought him."

Given Another Assignment

THE BOOK, Page 40: "Because Oppenheimer did not like (Dr. Edward Teller) personally, Teller was denied a specific job in connection with the development of the atomic bomb."

THE FACTS: At Los Alamos in wartime, Teller served in the Theoretical Division under the respected Dr. Hans Bethe. Bethe testified under oath that Teller arbitrarily refused to work "on the main line" of war-time atomic research, and that he—Bethe, not Oppenheimer—was therefore forced to give Teller another assignment.

THE BOOK, Page 48: "Soon after the war Oppenheimer proposed abandonment of (the Los Alamos)

laboratory . . . and was widely quoted as suggesting that the U. S. 'give Los Alamos back to the Indians.'"

THE FACTS: The specific ground that this was the only way to hold the laboratory together, Oppenheimer infuriated his fellow scientists by initially supporting the May-Johnson Bill for military control of the atom. The phrase quoted is torn, all bleeding, from the context of a post-war discussion about transferring the great laboratory to a different permanent site, where the scientists would be more comfortable. In the end, Oppenheimer opposed the transfer because "he thought it would do more harm than good."

THE BOOK, Page 51: "Turning to another goal, Oppenheimer was the dominant author of the 1946 Acheson-Lillenthal Plan for international atomic control. As originally written, the plan . . . did not deny the Soviets the veto power."

THE FACTS: The Acheson-Lillenthal Plan contained no provisions that would have given the Soviets a veto. Nonetheless, Oppenheimer publicly suggested adding a specific provision to guard against any Soviet attempt to create a veto where none existed. This he did shortly before Bernard M. Baruch took over the control problem. He then worked closely with Baruch and with Baruch's successor, Gen. Frederick Osborn. Gen. Osborn testified as to the "hardness" of Oppenheimer's approach to the Soviets, and Baruch offered to do so.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Remember when the patriotic Democrats said that politics stopped at the water's edge? That's as good a place to drown as any.

The famous non-partisan prescription on doctor's orders was promulgated by Andy Jackson when he poured it into his whisky.

It was called drowning the miller. Otherwise watering the grog.

When they said something about politics stopping at the water's edge Jimmy Roosevelt thought they meant the beauty contest on the boardwalk.

Jimmy got there at low tide. But managed to save one beauty from drowning. And two from watering.

We are morose to state the Democrats have skidded on their word. And are rapping the GOP foreign policy from Dan to Beersheba. Stevenson said our foreign policy was split in the middle like Dutch doors.

Stevie is the titular top of the Democrats-at-large. What he says should be considered the echo of a snapped bon-bon.

It proves that politics does not stop at the water's rim. It's a stopaway on every argosy of mar-larkey at every $100-a-dish victory smorgasbord. Otherwise why would Adlai chirp at Indianapolis, "Our inflexible program has convinced our friends that only the United States stands in the way of a peaceful world."

Bedtime Ritual Sometimes Helps In Going To Sleep

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Having trouble sleeping? If so, you may be one of the millions who have developed a fear of not getting enough sleep. If these people do not fall asleep immediately, they start worrying about not feeling up to snuff the next day and are certain their work will suffer.

The less stable individual may use insomnia as an excuse for his poor work and his underlying inadequacy serves to perpetuate sleeplessness. In most instances, the fear of obtaining too little sleep is unjustified. If we are wakeful one night, we usually make up for it the next.

Insomnia comes in three main types: Trouble falling asleep, awakening early in the morning long before the alarm is due to go off, and waking up several times during the night.

There are 101 reasons for sleeplessness. Temporary factors include grief over sickness or death in the family, worry over an impending big business deal, or an unusually hard day at the office. Discomfort produced by physical factors such as pain, indigestion, coughing, or itching will keep a person awake.

Environmental factors also play a role. The bedroom may be too warm or too cold, a street light may shine through the window or the neighborhood may be noisy. Excessive fatigue prevents relaxation and so will hunger or thirst. Disturbances of circulation, such as hardening of the arteries, often lead to insomnia and the same can be said of overindulgence in coffee, alcohol, or tobacco.

Since there is no substitute for sleep, anyone with something to offer is likely to have a large audience. Sedatives enter the picture but most physicians reserve these drugs for occasions when all other measures fail. They are a blessing, however, for the tense person who is unable to sleep because of an unavoidable temporary situation as well as for the ill and mentally deranged.

Simpler methods of inducing relaxation by lessening tension include bedtime rituals, some of which are carryovers from childhood days. Most youngsters hate to go to bed and delay the final goodnight as long as possible. One way of stalling is to ask for the bedtime story and the counterpart in the adult is reading or doing a crossword puzzle. The infant's pacifier is duplicated by the bedtime snack of the adult.

Others are helped by a ritual in which a mental note is made of the regular bedtime chores: The window is open, the alarm is set, the doors are locked, the glass of water is placed on the nightstand.

Listening to music is a favorite bedtime soother but some prefer to concentrate on majestic scenes like the Grand Canyon. Others

And put one on the rack. You can sit upon a mountain— But not upon a tack!

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

The most fastidious and polite Briton he ever met, avers a Detroit auto magnate, is the stout fellow who was captured in darkest Africa by a band of cannibals. He watched their preparations for a special feast without batting an eyelash, and didn't even lose his composure when they lowered him into the pot and began piling up shavings and big sticks beneath it. What finally broke him down, however, was the medicine man's obvious intention to slice an onion for additional flavor in the stew.

"I'll have to ask you to desist, my good man," said the Briton. "Those blasted things always make me cry!"

Says Elsie McCullough:

American Diplomats' Careful Planning Could Make Friends Of South America

Drew Pearson

LA PAZ, BOLIVIA—Every schoolboy knows that Christopher Columbus discovered America by mistake when he was really looking for the vast wealth of the Orient, but many adults don't even know that we who followed Columbus on the North American Continent have carried his mistake much farther and have continued to bet our economic and political chips on the Orient when a much wealthier and more friendly area lays right under our nose in South America.

Some five centuries have passed since Columbus and Hendrik Hudson and a dozen other explorers examined every nook and cranny of the rivers and bays of the Western Hemisphere with a view to finding a channel to the Orient. Five centuries is a long time, and should be enough time for us to learn.

Especially we have been slow to learn that the Orient, now rapidly going Communist, is not our dish of tea. With Indo China certain to go Communist, with the tin- and rubber-producing areas of the Malay Peninsula in danger, with Indonesia increasingly anti-American it seems to me it's time for us to turn to the rich and more friendly areas of the South.

Sen. William Knowland of California, sometimes called the senator from Formosa, wants to keep on worrying about the controversial island but I see no reasons why we should go to war over it, and I do see ample reason why we should concentrate on other parts of the world. That's one reason why I am making a quick trip down the West Coast of South America.

Why Orient's Going Communist

Most of the politicians in Washington don't realize it, but the chief reason the Orient is going Communist is because the white man, taking a leaf from Columbus' notebook, exploited the Orient at the expense of the New World. In brief, most of the products we buy from the Orient were stolen from Latin America. They were transplanted to the Orient because slave labor there was dirt cheap.

Labor was higher in South America. The social revolution came earlier there and now it's the social revolution which has caught up with the Orient. And in the Orient it is the rebellion against slave-labor wages that has brought communism.

To illustrate, it was a Britisher who, in 1876, smuggled the first rubber seeds out of Brazil and brought them to Ceylon, the Malays and Indonesia. Before that, rubber was king in Brazil. It built opera houses up the Amazon River. It started rubber factories for raincoats and gum boots in Mexico, but after the British began to exploit the cheap labor of Asia the rubber plantations of South America fell to rot and ruin.

That was why we spent three-quarters of a billion dollars building up synthetic rubber in the United States after Pearl Harbor, plus another quarter billion trying to encourage natural rubber development in South America. And that's why, with communism reaching down to these same Asiatic rubber plantations, we may be in for trouble again.

Lessons In Cocoa, Quinine

The same thing happened with cocoa. Chocolate and cocoa were found only in Latin America when the Spanish Conquistadors arrived, but the British transplanted it to the African Gold Coast where today, thanks to cheap labor, it produces more than Latin America.

It was the Dutch who picked up the cinchona or quinine tree from Peru in 1854 and transplanted it to the Dutch East Indies. Since then and until World War II the Dutch had a near monopoly on quinine and as a result of the Japanese invasion the United States found itself without quinine.

We rushed madly into Latin America to plant cinchona trees after Pearl Harbor, just as we tried to encourage hemp production and as we tried to persuade Bolivian tin miners to produce more tin.

Karl Bickel, former head of the United Press, was enlisted by the Nelson Rockefeller Cultural Relations Office to speed up sisal production in Central America to replace hemp, and we demanded that the Chilean government sell all its copper to us and that Cuba give us all its sugar.

Then, as the war ended, we diminished our purchases, dropped our prices, and in many cases went back to buying from the precarious and distant Orient. Naturally this caused depression, unemployment, and the danger of communism in Latin America.

Simultaneously, our Marshall Plan funds in some cases were siphoned off to build up Latin-American competition in Asia and especially Africa. Money sent to Europe under the Marshall Plan released other capital which went to build up French, British and Dutch investments in Asian and African territories.

The chief competitor of Brazil today, for instance, is African coffee, which has had a tremendous increase and is one reason for Brazil's economic difficulties.

Fingers Crossed

These are some of the reasons why the average Latin American, though still reasonably friendly to the United States, nevertheless keeps his economic fingers crossed. He sees the possibility of a great noncompetitive two-way trade in tropical products which we can't produce in the U. S. for manufactured products which he can't produce.

But, to put across this trade plus the cultural and political ties that should go with it, the United States will have to do a lot more careful planning than goes with our rather haphazard, hit-and-miss good neighbor policy today.

Peace And Prosperity

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass.—What we need more than anything in this country if we want both peace and prosperity is a better recognition of the law of supply and demand.

A Lesson From 1953

Many people have indicated to me in recent months a kind of fatalism about our economic outlook. They seem to feel that prosperity can be maintained only in a war economy. Perhaps this is because it has been so many years since we have prospered without war. A lesson that we will learn from the recession which started in the summer of 1953 is that we can have both peace and prosperity if we will adjust ourselves to the law of supply and demand.

But a lot of research must be done on consumer attitudes, on finding out what makes people buy, on how to create wants and needs, and how to develop appreciably more effective selling. This especially applies to all merchants. These are the ones who determine employment and business. I wish I had a five-dollar bill for every person I have recently heard say that he would buy a new car if only someone would really try to sell him one.

Lessons From The Past

During the peace years from 1929 through 1940, we lost in national output of both goods and services better than $600 billions when measured by 1953 prices. This was about twice what World War II cost us! Our real trouble during those unhappy years was that the buying power of our people failed to keep pace with our productive know-how. For the law of supply and demand to work freely in peacetime, the benefits of new inventions and new methods must be passed along to the worker in the form of higher wages and to the consumer in the form of lower prices, so that the public will be able to buy the product of our increased capacity. This surely requires spending more money on advertising.

Out of our experience in two world wars we have learned that the law of supply and demand, although suspended during wartime, must never be forgotten. We have learned that only by curtailing civilian demand can we meet military needs effectively, and save as many lives as possible. The trouble comes, however, when we try to return to a peacetime economy without stimulating civilian demand.

Your Part In Prosperity

Everybody knows that when the demand for anything becomes great, prices go up until production catches up. Remember what electric refrigerators, radios, and TV sets first cost. Look at the current asking price for color TV! When a smart businessman sees his colleagues making money by the fistful, he gets into the act too. Then as more goods are produced and more is spent on advertising, prices start to fall, people go out and buy, and more are employed.

Instead of letting business take this course after World War II, government subsidy and regulation tried to keep business good by holding prices high in the face of declining demand. Pretty soon inflation ballooned our whole price structure. The subsequent recession was in part a process of readjustment to this mistaken attempt to keep prices high.

Work For The Consumer

Whether or not we will have another crash depends on the kind of producers and merchants who make up our economy. The way of economic salvation is to work harder, produce better products at lower cost, and then sell harder than ever before. New markets for new products must be developed. When a market is lost, the sales organization had better find another market rather than appeal to the government.

I forecast that research must be encouraged to keep a concern or a city in a competitively strong position—product research, selling research, and consumer research. Salaries must keep pace with the times. The law of supply and demand will require flexibility and adaptability of all of us. But, if we want both peace and prosperity, we will learn how to live under a free working law of supply and demand. This law we can no more change than we can change the weather.

A New York psychologist says we should have music with out luncheons. This does not apply, we hope, to the soup course.

The sweetest luncheon music, says Zadok Dumkopf, is when your table companion says, "I'll pay the check!"

The Lone Ranger, fictional TV-radio-newspaper strip hero, got a vote for sheriff in a Montana primary. As Tonto, his Indian pal, would say: "Him heap good man!"

It's now believed the North Pole was in Arizona 600 million years ago. Some cowhand probably used it for a hitching post.

When Chicago's biggest skyscraper, 601 feet high, is completed, it will be possible to view parts of Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and Michigan from its roof. What a spot to watch those Big Ten football games!

What's this about a New Yorker being nabbed for parading down Broadway wearing a red cowboy suit and a purple 10-gallon hat? Could he be a refugee from a color television horse opera?

The auto of the future, declares a motor car designer, will be whale-shaped. And if the tendency toward longer wheel bases continues it'll probably be whale-sized.

There's a town in California named Vacation. Bet the folk in Florida wished they'd thought of that first.

Mt. Savage Man Given Sentence

Accused of violating two state motor laws, Dale Campbell, 20, of Mt. Savage, was sentenced Saturday in Trial Magistrate Court to one year in the Maryland House of Correction.

Pointing out the defendant's previous record in regard to vehicular violations, Magistrate Donald W. Mason also noted that Campbell had served a term in the Maryland Reformatory for Males on a malicious destruction of property count. Saturday's hearing resulted from Campbell forcing a city police cruiser off River Avenue in South End about midnight Friday. He was taken into custody later near the intersection of Virginia Avenue and Oldtown Road.

En route to Police Headquarters Campbell engaged in a scuffle with officers. Prior to the motor case trial, he was fined $25 in Police Court by Magistrate J. Milton Dick for disorderly conduct.

Then Campbell was taken before Magistrate Mason to face charges of driving on a revoked license and reckless driving.

The Korean conflict ended after costing the United States 142,000 casualties, and $15,000,000,000 from the national treasury. Subsequently, President Eisenhower had made it plain he would never carry this country into war without full consultation with the Congress. On more than 100 occasions the President and the State Department in those twenty months has conferred with leaders of both parties and both houses.

The world is at peace for the first time in twelve years. We must not underestimate the threat that will exist to the peace of the world as long as the international outlaws of the Communist conspiracy are on the loose. We believe, however, that this administration's policy of strength militarily, firmness diplomatically, and coolness in crises is the one which has the best chance of gaining our great objective of peace without surrender.

At home, we live in fullest assurance that all possible safeguards have been built against the kind of subversion which made a shambles of domestic security in the locust years during and after World War II. Together, this administration team has evolved a hard-hitting program that forged potent legal weapons designed to destroy the Communist conspiracy.

We have dealt effectively with corruption. No appointee of the Eisenhower administration has become tinged with scandal and the American people can be sure that corruption of any type will not go unpunished in this Administration.

From War To Peace Economy
Controls which patently were unable to control runaway inflation have been lifted off the backs of harassed consumers, workers, and business men alike. Our dollars today are firm dollars; purchasing power has held steady for twenty months after a skyrocket ride that had sent living costs up almost 50 per cent between 1945 and 1952.

A war economy is a false economy with spending rife and governmental funds apparently inexhaustible. The size of our national debt, swollen by the 677 billions which three major wars cost us since 1917, proves the fallacy of "war prosperity."

When the war dance ends, the Grim Piper must be paid. Somehow the crazy-quilt pattern of quick spending for unproductive things must be transformed into an intelligible system for the future. This was a major chore for the Eisenhower administration. It has been accomplished with minimum disruption of our great industries, our labor force, and our citizenry in general.

We have meanwhile built into our new-found peacetime economy solid guarantees against difficult times, and we have reduced taxes by seven and a half billions, largely by chopping eleven billions from the Federal government's previously planned spending.

Others who will contribute to this series will describe the immense forward strides taken in the field of human welfare, in fiscal streamlining and modernization, and pioneering the peaceful use of atomic energy in agriculture, and restoring to the states their historic rights.

Thinking Behind Achievements

As these achievements flowed into the record, the philosophy and the thinking behind them became abundantly clear.

The Eisenhower administration and the Republican Eighty-third Congress hold firmly that Americans are not units to be regimented. They value their freedoms, their chance to grow and prosper, their right to make their own decisions about their own affairs.

We know that there is much more to be done under this new-found concept in the two years ahead of us. We say two years because the congressional biennium is the period we necessarily must use to measure governmental and political progress.

Here in conclusion are ten basic principles of the Eisenhower administration, as I see them, which will guide us through this difficult, but challenging, era:

1. We believe in the importance of the individual and in equal opportunity for every American.

2. We recognize that our national welfare demands certain indispensable social services to insure against personal disaster.

3. We dedicate ourselves to the good of all citizens, not to any particular segment of them.

4. We are determined to bring efficiency and integrity to our federal government so it will gain honor at home and respect abroad.

5. We hold that a sound money policy will preserve economic stability and protect the people's savings.

6. We have lasting faith in local initiative and responsibility, except in those special areas where federal government alone can act more economically and effectively.

7. We believe in the incentives that generate the creative growth of the American economy.

8. We know that a positive, firm and consistent foreign policy will discourage aggression and encourage peace.

9. We will maintain our national defenses at the highest levels consistent with our economic ability.

10. And, finally, we trust in God's providence as the ultimate source of the dignity and freedom of man. Copyright, 1954, N. Y. Herald Tribune Inc.

"Me fix a washing machine?"

"My wife—bless her—thinks I'm the world's handiest handy man. But when the washing machine broke down last Monday morning, I had to admit I wasn't quite that good. But I did straighten things out. I just called the service man and I was off to work. In less than an hour the machine was fixed."

The telephone does so many things so often, we're inclined to take it for granted. Yet, when you need something in a hurry, or when you want to save yourself time and trouble, you always turn to it for help. Today more than ever, people say, "Telephone service is one of the biggest bargains I buy."

"My telephone is worth more to me than it costs"

Few things give you so MUCH for so little

Social Welfare Club Begins Fall Activities On Thursday

Report Made Shows Year Of Progress

WESTERNPORT — The first fall meeting of the Social Welfare Club will be held Thursday, October 7, at 8 p. m. at the DeLuxe Restaurant, Mrs. William Phelps, Luke, president of the club states.

Committees for the year will be announced at this meeting. New projects, both social and welfare will also be discussed and planned.

Mrs. Phelps who is entering her second year as president of the group, said a resume of the 1953-54 club activities shows the following events were held, a Thanksgiving dance, a public supper, and a fashion show. All of the projects were very successful as were those which groups in the club sponsored as their own fund raising ideas.

During the year the club spent a total of $814. Of this amount $499 was spent for food orders, clothing and medical aid. At Christmas time $116.32 was spent for Christmas food orders, members donated new toys for the baskets and the club bought 15 chickens for the United Organizations.

To various local and national drives, the Social Welfare Club donated $135 of which a large percentage either remains in this area or reverts to this community. Each month donations were made to the Westernport Library and the Westernport Health Center.

The members of the club sponsored this year's March of Dimes Drive, with Mrs. Phelps as chairman; assisted at the TB mobile unit, the Blood Bank, and the Westernport Health Center Clinics.

The club wishes to thank the many people who have contributed their time and money so generously to the support of the organization and its activities, realizing that without this support the club's fine record of accomplishments would not have been possible, Mrs. Phelps noted.

Barter Players Will Present Show At Keyser

KEYSER — One hundred and fifty students of Valley High School, Lonaconing, will attend the matinee performance of "Macbeth," by the Barter Theatre on October 13, at 3 p. m., in the Keyser High School auditorium.

Miss Esther Holsahu, English teacher at Valley High, has already obtained tickets to assure students good seats. She feels that her students will miss a rare opportunity if they fail to see "Macbeth," especially since this widely quoted drama is studied in her class.

Many other teachers throughout the local area are encouraging students to see this famous play. Two other plays will be presented later in the season.

The Barter Theatre of Virginia, has performed in Keyser for the past six consecutive years. Barter players have become world famous for their acting ability, beautiful costuming and lighting effects.

Miss Mary Shipper, librarian at Potomac State College represents sponsors of the Barter Theatre in Keyser. Tickets are now on sale and can be purchased from her. Special matinee rates are being offered.

Sorority Holds Report Session

KEYSER — A business meeting of Iota Phi Chapter, Tau Phi Lambda Sorority, Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle, was held in the Sorority room a recent evening, at which time officers and committee chairmen made reports. Mrs. Alice Ravenscroft, president, directed the meeting.

Betty Kephart, chairman of the program committee gave a talk and demonstration on "Table Manners." Jean Harman also took part in the program.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Jackie Smith and Geraldine Taylor, to the following: Jean Harman, Alice Ravenscroft, Dorothy Royce, Mary Rotruck, Betty Kephart, Karen Clary, Angela Panico, Alma Twigg, Loretta Keener, Rosetta Kephart, Lavada Householder, Virginia Avey and Frances Hartman.

The next gathering of the sorority group will be a celebration of Founders' Day at which the pledge dinner will be served, on Monday, October 11 in the Veterans of Foreign Wars home at Lonaconing. Notice was given that all planning to attend are to notify Lavada Householder soon.

Hammond Street Plans Halloween

WESTERNPORT — The annual Halloween carnival of Hammond Street School will be held Friday, October 29, Miss Nellie Dowling, principal, states.

The children will parade in Halloween attire in the afternoon. Supper will be served in the school cafeteria and the carnival will provide various forms of entertainment in the evening.

For Rent: 4 room house, Adults. For Sale, piano, excellent condition. Phone Frostburg 7-W. Adv. N. T. Oct. 4

Social Welfare Club Begins Fall Activities On Thursday

Report Made Shows Year Of Progress

WESTERNPORT — The first fall meeting of the Social Welfare Club will be held Thursday, October 7, at 8 p. m. at the DeLuxe, Restaurant, Mrs. William Phelps, Luke, president of the club states.

Committees for the year will be announced at this meeting. New projects, both social and welfare will also be discussed and planned.

Mrs. Phelps who is entering her second year as president of the 1953 group, said a resume of the following events were held, a Thanksgiving dance, a public supper, and a fashion show. All of the projects were very successful as were those which groups in the club sponsored as their own fund raising ideas.

During the year the club spent a total of $814. Of this amount $499 was spent for food orders, clothing and medical aid. At Christmas time $116.52 was spent for Christmas food orders, members donated new toys for the baskets and the club bought 15 chickens for the United Organizations.

To various local and national drives, the Social Welfare Club donated $135 of which a large percentage either remains in this area or reverts to this community. Each month donations were made to the Westernport Library and the Westernport Health Center.

The members of the club sponsored this year's March of Dimes Drive, with Mrs. Phelps as chairman; assisted at the TB mobile unit, the Blood Bank, and the Westernport Health Center Clinics.

The club wishes to thank the many people who have contributed their time and money so generously to the support of the organization and its activities, realizing that without this support the club's fine record of accomplishments would not have been possible, Mrs. Phelps noted.

Women's Guild Meets Tuesday

FROSTBURG — The Women's Guild of Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church will hold their regular monthly meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. in the church recreation room, with Mrs. Benjamin H. Lewis, president, in charge.

Reports will be given by Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Sue Thomas, delegates to the regional conference held recently in Berlin, Pa. All members are asked to bring infants clothing or pre-school age clothing for a World-Service package.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Mabel Winfield, Mrs. Clara Boettner, Mrs. Bessie Brode and Mrs. Gladys Livengood.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 3 (INS)—Tone on the stage and may get Bill Holden for the screen version. Before these he had "Streetcar Named Desire," starring Marlon Brando and Vivien Leigh.

Don't ask me who Charlie plans to star in the Pinza role on the screen. He ain't talking. In fact, Charlie doesn't even know I have the "Fanny" story. My New York spy tipped me off.

The very first actor signed for "Naked and the Dead" is Bob Mitchum, who is very excited about working again for Paul Gregory. I talked with Paul and he told me that Mitchum is the only one definitely signed and that the plans to put the controversial Norman Mailer novel before the cameras in mid-June.

Bob finishes "Night of the Hunter" next Wednesday and goes directly into "Not as a Stranger."

Charles Laughton will supervise "Naked and the Dead" as he has all of the Gregory productions, and everyone who has worked with Laughton has only the most complimentary things to say about his ideas and his artistry.

In the crowded room at the Chrysler party I saw Joan Crawford dancing. That girl has the greatest amount of energy of anyone I know. I seem to see her out every night. I flagged Joan to ask her to tell me about her autobiography. "I've already started it," she said.

"Are you going to tell all?" I asked.

"What do you think?" she laughed.

Well, there's plenty of interest to tell in Joan's life.

Very few people know that Judy

Holliday has been a very sick girl. She was operated on for that foot condition which was so painful while she was making "Phffft" at Columbia.

The surgery was successful, but by walking on crutches she irritated her legs and she had a recurrence of bursitis which was so painful she had to resort to a wheelchair. She had bursitis too while making "Phffft," and although she is committed to a TV show no one knows when she will be able to work.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Winnie Gardiner, Sonja Henie's about-to-be ex, is devoting his attention to Beth Copp, eastern society girl.

Jerry Lewis' gift to his wife on their 10th wedding anniversary, he says, is his undying love and devotion—as well as a new yellow Cadillac.

Groucho Marx' ex-wife, Kay, who was supposed to marry comedian Lennie Sherman in December, has called the whole thing off. She's been seen lately with Warren Stevens, stage actor.

At the premiere of "A Star Is Born" and at the Chrysler party, and again at the Mocambo, Susan Hayward was with Richard Egan, one of the few men she's been out with, other than her agent, since her trouble with Jess Barker.

Shelley Winters, who leaves for London for "I Am a Camera" in three weeks, is improving the shining hours while she's here by dining with Ivan Moffett. They were a twosome at the Wild Goose Restaurant a few nights ago.

Norman Siegel, who has had plenty of experience with the royal film shows having been in charge of the Hollywood contingent for three visits, has been appointed to the general committee for this year's presentation which will be held on Nov. 15.

All those who wondered why James Mason wasn't at the premiere of "A Star Is Born," and why he missed his TV show, should know that he has had a bad virus attack. Van Heflin, who pinch-hit for him on the Lux show, refused to take a cent.

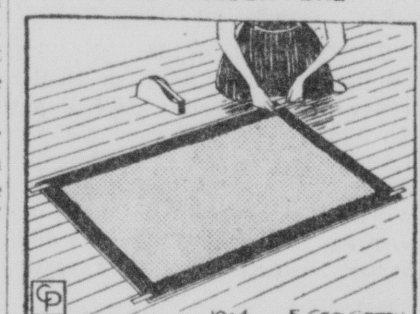

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Carleton Carpenter as the photographer is no Danny Kaye—this was the role that precipitated Kaye to movie stardom—and Victor Mature was a lot more convincing cowboy star than Robert Fortier. However, James Daly as the guy who finally gets the girl was great.

FEW FRONT DOORS carry such frightening words nowadays. The quarantine today is more on the disease, less on the victim. Thanks to preventive inoculations, children now catch fewer childhood diseases; thanks to new antibiotics, they have a far better chance of recovery. ## Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 3 (INS)—Charles Feldman took aim with his trusty checkbook and brought down another big Broadway show, "Fanny," starring Ezio Pinza, Florence Henderson and Walter Slezak, which is now playing its out-of-town try-out.

What's Charlie trying to do? Grab all the top plays? So far he's lined up "Seven Year Itch" (now in production with Marilyn Monroe and Tom Ewell); "Oh, Men, Oh Women" which starred Franchot

Tone on the stage and may get Bill Holden for the screen version. Before these he had "Streetcar Named Desire," starring Marlon Brando and Vivien Leigh. FEW FRONT DOORS carry such frightening words nowadays. The quarantine today is more on the disease, less on the victim. Thanks to preventive inoculations, children now catch fewer childhood diseases; thanks to new antibiotics, they have a far better chance of recovery. Example: Children today have 75 times the chance of recovery from diphtheria that a child had in the 1920's; 40 times the chance of recovery from whooping cough; 25 times the chance of recovery from measles. ### Lady In Color

The only regret I had when "Lady in the Dark" faded out and the screen reverted to its drab black and white was that the whole country could not have seen this one in color. There have been some good color shows before, but this was the finest one to come along yet.

This 14-year-old Moss Hart play with music, with its elaborate dream sequences, its ballets, its song and dance numbers, cries out for color, and Max Liebman, the producer, gave it color with an opulence and imagination and taste that have never been equaled on color TV. And the costume department ran amok providing Miss Ann Sothern with a magnificent array of gowns — she must have worn about 20 different dresses, each equipped with zippers which ran from neck to hem for 40-second changes. One lace job had a skirt of 21 different rainbow shades.

In playing Liza Elliott, Miss Sothern was following in the footsteps of two redoubtable actresses — Gertrude Lawrence, who originated the role on the stage, and Ginger Rogers, who did it in the movies. For tackling the job at all—she only consented because Liebman was going to do it—Miss S. gets the Crosby award for courage for this year.

I'm not going to do anything so obvious as to compare her to either Miss Lawrence or Miss Rogers; I will only say that I don't think any other actress could have done a more splendid job of work. Of course, Liza Elliott is the dream part of all time.

Picture a role in which an actress is cast as a terribly successful career woman with three men of widely varying types in love with her. In her dreams she's a glamorous queen with dozens of men at her feet. She's asked to sing and to dance and to act all over the place. One minute she's a mature woman, getting on in years; the next minute, she's an adolescent school girl. She even gets to sing, "Jenny," the girl who couldn't say no in 27 languages, which is a fat part all in itself. The only thing Hart didn't include in the role is a high wire act, and I don't know how he happened to miss it.

The idea of building a play with music around the dreams of a woman in psychoanalysis is not quite as daring as it was 14 years ago but it's still a hell of an ingenious notion. As psychiatry goes, it has always seemed to me that Liza Elliott's subconscious was a fairly elemental one, but I suppose anything more complicated would resist staging altogether.

I can't remember 90 minutes of TV which held together so tautly, keeping you glued there every second. There were many high moments. To pick out only a few: the opening dream sequence where Miss Sothern does a dance with a bunch of Columbus Avenue bums; the ballet with Bambi Lynn and Rod Alexander, which in color was incredibly beautiful, and the songs "Saga of Jenny" and "My Ship" sung by Miss Sothern. The only questionable moment I felt was the scene where Miss Elliott tells her cowboy suitor to get lost, which I considered a trifle peremptory. But then it was getting late and I guess they had to get on with it.

In playing Liza Elliott, Miss Sothern was following in the footsteps of two redoubtable actresses — Gertrude Lawrence, who originated the role on the stage, and Ginger Rogers, who did it in the movies. For tackling the job of an all-she-only-consented-to because Liebman gave her the go-ahead, Miss Sothern gets the Crosby award for courage for this year.

I'm not going to do anything so odious as to compare her to either Miss Lawrence or Miss Rogers; I will only say that I don't think any other actress could have done a more splendid job of work. Of course, Liza Elliott is the dream part of all time.

Picture a role in which an actress is cast as a terribly successful career woman with three men of widely various types in love with her. As psychiatry goes, it has always seemed to me that Liza Elliott's subconscious was a fairly elemental one, but I suppose anything more complicated would resist staging altogether.

I can't remember 90 minutes of TV which held together so tautly, keeping you glued there every second. There were many high moments. To pick out only a few: the opening dream sequence where Miss Sothern does a dance with a bunch of Columbus Avenue bums; the ballet with Bambi Lynn and Rod Alexander, which in color was incredibly beautiful, and the songs "Sage of Jenny" and "My Ship" sung by Miss Sothern. The only questionable moment I felt was the scene where Miss Elliott tells her cowboy suitor to get lost, which I considered a trifle peremptory. But then it was getting late and I guess they had to get on with it.

Daily Bridge Lesson

by Barclay

BE A MATHEMATICIAN

TO BE a well-rounded bridge player, you must be something of a mathematician. That does not apply simply to such things as valuing your cards or counting up to 13 in card-reading during the play. It involves higher figures, up in the thousands. For instance, take the situation in which an opponent, for some non-apparent reason, sees fit to double your Blackwood king-asking bid of 4-No Trumps. If you already were sure of your ability to make the grand slam, would you go ahead and bid it, or would you redouble because you considered the bizarre double opportunity knocking on your door? The answer is in the realm of arithmetic.

▲ A 7643
♥ A 85
♦ 7643
♣ 10

▲ 885
♥ J 743
♦ 10952
♣ 73

▲ KQ
♥ K6
♦ A8
♣ AKQJ865

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

2 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass
3 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass
4 NT Pass 5 ♠ Pass
5 NT Dbl. Pass Pass
Rdbl.

South was clear in his mind about the grand slam in Clubs or No Trumps as soon as he heard his partner's response of 5-Hearts to the Blackwood 4-No Trumps, showing two aces. He counted seven tricks in clubs, three in spades, maybe more, two in hearts and one in diamonds. There was no need to ask about kings with the 5-No Trumps, but he did that more or less for the fun of it.

Imagine his surprise, then, when he heard West's double. That of course was allowed to ride around to South, who decided he would teach West a lesson by redoubling. Naturally he took all of the tricks.

He began to laugh gleefully then as he figured out the score. But West laughed harder still. South actually got a total of 2,190 points, including the game bonus of 700, 640 for five No Trump odd-tricks, 400 each for two extra tricks and 50 for making the contract. But he would have scored 2,440 if he had bid the club slam, with 1,500 slam bonus, 700 for game, 140 for tricks and 100 for honors. So West had fengled him out of 250 points. As West explained, he had spent hours away from the table figuring out the relative differences in various possible scores.

Tomorrow's Problem

How should South play for 6-No Trumps if the diamond 10 is led to the A and the 4 returned?

Why not catch up with correspondence this week? It's National Letter Writing Week!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

To receive a letter, write a letter. Or, better yet, write when you feel the urge. Do you recall my mentioning this in a recent column? It is even more appropriate that we talk about correspondence now, because this is National Letter Writing Week.

There are the letters you must write and the letters you just plain enjoy writing—or I hope you do. There's no better way to link one with far-away friends and family than the written word that carries your personality with it.

When penning personal letters, it's nice to know what's preferred by letter-writing authorities. For example, do you know where the dateline should appear? On semi-business letters place it above the letter and slightly to the right. On informal letters add the date—or the day of the week—after the letter, in the lower left-hand corner.

The address. Do you know where the address belongs? In a social letter the receiver's address appears only on the envelope. In semi-business correspondence, the address is written at the end in the lower left-hand corner; in a business letter, it belongs above the salutation.

Do you type social correspondence? Nowadays it is quite correct. In fact, you may even go further, and personalize them with colored typewriter ribbon and tinted paper. The pairings of colors should be tasteful, of course.

The quality of the paper you use bespeaks the quality of the writer. Good letter paper costs no more than the stamp for its mailing, and it creates a favorable impression. A letter of application, for example, can be by its appearance, as well as its phrasing, qualify or disqualify you for a job. Similarly, both appearance and content make the social letter a joy or a disappointment.

Hagerstown Man Wins National Army Rifle Shoot

FT. MYER, Va., Oct. 3 (AP)—A Marylander who turned skill as a squirrel hunter into Army rifle sharp shooting was honored today as a national champion.

Cpl. Edward F. Grimes, whose home is in Hagerstown, Md., recently won the national individual rifle championship at Camp Perry in Ohio.

Today his feat was celebrated at ceremonies at this Army post.

Grimes presented to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Army chief of staff, the Daniel Boone Trophy Grimes won as national champion.

Later, Grimes occupied the reviewing stand during the regimental retreat parade of the 3rd Infantry.

Grimes, who is stationed at Ft. Devins, Mass., scored 243 out of a possible 250 in the National Rifle Assn. meet.

His score was within one point of the 244 record for the Camp Perry course.

An Army official said Grimes had no experience in use of 30 caliber rifles prior to joining the Army about 20 months ago. But he promptly made the rifle team at Ft. Devins and in the recent meet out-shot some of the best marksmen, military and civilian, in the nation.

Prior to joining the Army, the official said, Grimes had used only small caliber rifles for hunting and had belonged to a rod and gun club in Maryland where he had done some skeet shooting.

The trophy won by Grimes will be placed on display at the Pentagon. A miniature was given to Grimes for permanent possession.

Why not catch up with correspondence this week? It's National Letter Writing Week!

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

To receive a letter, write a letter. Or, better yet, write when you feel the urge. Do you recall my mentioning this in a recent column? It is even more appropriate that we talk about correspondence now, because this is National Letter Writing Week.

There are the letters you must write and the letters you just plain enjoy writing—or I hope you do. There's no better way to link one with far-away friends and family than the written word that carries your personality with it.

When penning personal letters, it's nice to know what's preferred by letter-writing authorities. For example, do you know where the dateline should appear? On semi-business letters place it above the letter and slightly to the right. On informal letters add the date—the day of the week—after the letter, in the lower left-hand corner.

The Address
Do you know where the address belongs? In a social letter the receiver's address appears only on the envelope. In semi-business correspondence, the address is written at the end in the lower left-hand corner; in a business letter, it belongs above the salutation.

Do you type social correspondence? Nowadays it is quite correct. In fact, you may even go further, and personalize them with colored typewriter ribbon and tinted paper. The pairings of colors should be tasteful, of course.

The quality of the paper you use bespeaks the quality of the writer. Good letter paper costs no more than the stamp for its mailing, and it creates a favorable impression. A letter of application, for example, can by its appearance, as well as its phrasing, qualify or disqualify you for a job. Similarly, both appearance and content make the social letter a joy or a disappointment.

Paper Size
Select the size of paper that shows off your handwriting to advantage (as well as one appropriate for the occasion).

Hagerstown Man Wins National Army Rifle Shoot

FT. MYER, Va., Oct. 3 (AP)—A Marylander who turned skill as a squirrel hunter into Army rifle sharp shooting was honored today as a national champion.

Cpl. Edward F. Grimes, whose home is in Hagerstown, Md., recently won the national individual rifle championship at Camp Perry in Ohio.

Today his feat was celebrated at ceremonies at this Army post.

Grimes presented to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Army chief of staff, the Daniel Boone Trophy Grimes won as national champion.

Later, Grimes occupied the reviewing stand during the regimental retreat parade of the 3rd Infantry.

Grimes, who is stationed at Ft. Devins, Mass., scored 243 out of a possible 250 in the National Rifle Assn. meet.

His score was within one point of the 244 record for the Camp Perry course.

An Army official said Grimes had had no experience in use of .30 caliber rifles prior to joining the Army about 20 months ago. But he promptly made the rifle team at Ft. Devins and in the recent meet out-shot some of the best marksmen, military and civilian, in the nation.

Prior to joining the Army, the official said, Grimes had used only small caliber rifles for hunting and had belonged to a rod and gun club in Maryland where he had done some sharp shooting.

The trophy won by Grimes will be placed on display at the Pentagon. A miniature was given to Grimes for permanent possession.

Funeral Today For Hotel Operator
BERKELEY SPRINGS, W. Va., Oct. 3 (AP)—Funeral services will be held here tomorrow for Walter G. Harmon, a Berkeley Springs hotel owner and manager who died Saturday following a heart attack.

The 60-year-old Harmon had built the present Parkway Inn in 1933 and operated it ever since. He was the first commander of the local American Legion post following World War I.

Democrats Schedule Series Of Pre-Election Meetings

Democratic headquarters at the Algonquin Hotel swings into high gear during the final month of campaigning before the November 2 election with a series of staff meetings set for each Tuesday evening and a number of talks scheduled by the candidates for Congress and the State Senate.

The Democratic State Central Committee and chairmen of committees for the campaign will meet each Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the inner lobby of the hotel, the campaign headquarters.

Edward J. Ryan, candidate for Congress from the Sixth District, will be the principal speaker at a meeting of the State Central Committee at 7:30 p. m. Friday. Also scheduled to attend the meeting are Dr. W. O. McLane, general chairman for the Democratic campaign, county Democratic candidates and precinct workers from this city and outlying precincts.

Similar meetings are scheduled to be held in the near future in Frostburg, Lonaconing and Westport.

William L. Wilson Jr., candidate for the State Senate, will address a meeting of the Young Democratic Club at 7:30 p. m. Thursday at the campaign headquarters.

Thomas F. Conlon Jr., president of the Young Democrats, will appoint club committees for the year and will also name a committee to work with the State Central and campaign committees.

Ryan toured Garrett County Friday and told a political gathering at the Oakland City Hall "this is the Democratic Party's year of destiny." That his statement had backing, at least in the state's westernmost county, was supported by an announcement by registrars of the Garrett County Board of Election Supervisors.

Registrars revealed 93 Democrats and 53 Republicans had registered last week for the upcoming election. The registrars also stated that 70 voters had applied to have their affiliation changed from Republican to Democrat. Garrett County is traditionally Republican.

W.Md., RIU Plan New Dues System
The Railroad Industrial Union and the Western Maryland Railway have signed an agreement calling for dues checkoff for the employees represented by the union, according to Elmer Davis, RIU president.

The checkoff will have the company deducting RIU dues from the paychecks of the firemen, engineers and hostlers who belong to the union, Davis explained.

Davis termed the dues checkoff an important advancement in the railroad union's progress.

The engineers, firemen and hostlers on the Western Maryland Railway were organized in October 1945 by District 50, United Mine Workers.

The three crafts reorganized in 1947 and in October 15 of that year formed the Railroad Industrial Union as their bargaining agent.

The first important step made by the union, Davis said, was the union shop agreement made with the railroad for the three crafts in September 1951.

The Railroad industrial union has lodges in Cumberland, Port Covington, Hagerstown and Bowest. National headquarters is in the Clark-Keating Building, Cumberland.

SKIDMORE INFANT
The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Skidmore, RD 5, Cresap Park, died yesterday in Sacred Heart Hospital, shortly after birth. Interment was in Frostburg Memorial Burial Park.

MRS. MARIETTA KELLER
Mrs. Marietta Keller, 70, died yesterday morning at her home, 120 Humbird Street, where she had been ill for about a week.

Born in Cumberland, she was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John E. Trout and is survived by her husband, Jacob Ernest Keller.

Other survivors include two sons, Harvey G. and Ernest L. Keller, both of Cumberland; a daughter, Mrs. Robert Hobell, this city; four sisters, Mrs. Lillie Gummell and Mrs. Mandella Settars, both Baltimore, and Mrs. Florence Weltman and Mrs. George Robinette, of Cumberland; one brother, Albert Trout, Cumberland; 12 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The body is at the residence. Services will be conducted Wednesday at 2 p. m. at Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church, of which Mrs. Keller was a charter member. Rev. Joseph P. Sheesley, pastor, will officiate, assisted by Rev. Frank Fratto. Interment will be in Rose Hill Cemetery.

with Edward J. Ryan, Democrat of this county.

Rounding out the two-man contests are the State Senate race between Robert B. Kimble, the Republican incumbent, and William L. Wilson, Democrat, and the battle for sheriff between Edward R. Muir, Republican incumbent, and Graydon S. Dunlap, Democrat.

Coat Is Missing
City police are investigating the disappearance of a $98 woman's coat from a local department store. Detective Joseph H. Stutcher said police were told the rose-colored coat with fur collar was removed from a rack Saturday.

Independents No Party, Declares Attorney General

Demos Can Claim Board Positions

The Democrats in Allegany County appear to be safe, so far as minority appointments to boards and commissions are concerned. A few days ago, local politicians raised a question regarding the appointment of the minority member of the Allegany County Board of Liquor License Commissioners. It was ventured that since there is an independent candidate running for election to the Board of Allegany County Commissioners, the Democrats might lose their minority appointments, if this independent polled more votes than the Democratic candidate for commissioner. Edward D. E. Rollins, attorney general of Maryland, was asked for an opinion on the question and his unofficial reply would indicate that the Democrats are safe. In a letter to The News, he writes as follows:

"The problem arises by reason of the fact that there is an independent candidate for the office of County Commissioner of Allegany County, and the statutory provision requires that the Board of License Commissioners shall consist of three persons, two of whom shall always be members of the political party which at the last preceding general election, polled the greatest number of votes in the aggregate for the several offices of County Commissioner, and the third member of the Board shall always be a member of that political party which at the last preceding general election in Allegany County, polled the second highest number of votes in the aggregate for the several offices of County Commissioner therein."

Rollins, in his letter, continues: "While the Attorney General is the legal adviser of the Governor and other State officials and does not ordinarily render opinions to County officials, I have no objection to expressing my own personal views on your question."

"The statutory provision that the third member of the Board of Liquor License Commissioners shall be a member of the political party which polls the second highest number of votes, does not, I think, give rise to any complication, because to my knowledge, there is no political party in Maryland known as the 'Independent' party."

"The name of a candidate who files an Independent nominating petition . . . is printed on the ballot together with the political party contained in his petition, but if there shall have been any nomination for the same office by convention or primary election claiming the same party name, there shall be then printed to the right of the name of the candidate so nominated by petition, only the word, 'Independent' and none other."

In his letter, Rollins quoted from the sections of the Maryland Code which apply. From Rollins' unofficial opinion, local observers agreed that the Democrats can probably claim the minority appointment on the liquor board.

The question arose when it was brought out that A. Lee Marple had filed for county commissioner as an independent candidate. He opposes William H. Lemmert, James Orr and Charles N. "Jerry" Wilkinson, Republicans, and a lone Democrat, James P. Russell, Mt. Savage. The Democrats feared they might lose the appointment if Marple, as an independent, polled more votes than their candidate, Russell.

KC Assembly Holds Dinner

The third annual Defenders Day dinner of the Chief Justice Taney General Assembly, Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, was held Saturday at the Ali Ghan Country Club, with an address by Sir Knight William M. Lennox, L.L.D., highlighting the affair.

Lennox cited the accomplishments of the organization, mentioning that the youth program of the K of C is helping to combat one of the most urgent problems facing this nation—juvenile delinquency. He also remarked that the Knight of Columbus has been instrumental in bringing the Vatican Library to St. Louis University by microfilming all the manuscripts at the Vatican.

Five veteran members of the General Assembly were honored: Thomas F. Conlon Sr., Cumberland; Charles W. Carney and Thomas E. Stephens, Mt. Savage; William J. Shuck, Ridgeley; and Edward L. Gooding, Frostburg. J. D. Murray, faithful navigator, gave the address of welcome; Edward Neus, deputy grand knight of Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus, was the toastmaster; and Rev. Marius Elsenor, pastor of St. Peter and Paul Catholic Church, offered the invocation. A dance was held following the dinner.

Dog Is Peppered With BB Shot

City police are investigating a report from Mrs. R. C. Marker, 522 Williams Street, that someone shot her dog with a BB rifle. Detective Joseph Stitzer said the animal was marked and bleeding in several places. Stitzer said charges of cruelty to animals and of discharging firearms within the city can be filed in the case.

Both Lights Say WALK

Patrolman Walter P. Dennison explains the operation of Cumberland's new pedestrian traffic signals on Baltimore Street to John L. Oldaker, 74, a retired Kelly-Springfield Tire Company worker, of 220 Glenn Street. The officer emphasized that pedestrians may walk across intersections when both the amber traffic light and the neon signals show WALK. The new system was placed into effect yesterday afternoon and will get its acid test in heavy traffic today and tonight.

New Traffic Light Setup Is Placed In Operation

Cumberland's new pedestrian traffic system was placed into effect on Baltimore Street yesterday afternoon.

Patrolmen were stationed at each intersection to help both drivers and pedestrians to get acquainted with the new plan, and reported generally satisfactory operation.

Women Are Hurt In 3-Car Crash Near Hancock

Two women were hospitalized as a result of a three-car accident on Route 40, about nine miles east of Hancock, late yesterday morning. Maryland State Police listed the injured as Diane Peterson, 45, of Park Ridge, Ill., and Mrs. Catherine Fogle, 45, of Walkersville, Md.

The Park Ridge woman was admitted to Berkeley Springs, W. Va., Hospital for treatment of a broken nose and deep lacerations of the face and head.

Mrs. Fogle was brought to Sacred Heart Hospital here and was treated for a possible hip injury before being taken to Frederick Memorial Hospital in Frederick.

Trooper J. F. Lewis investigated. A Wiley Ford woman and a 17-year-old youth were hurt yesterday in a two-car collision on West Virginia Route 28 in Romney.

Treated at Memorial Hospital here for minor injuries were Mrs. Mildred Lambert, 41, and Ellisworth Lambert, 17, also of Wiley Ford.

Amos Lambert, husband of the injured woman, told State Police he was driving north when the accident occurred about 11 a. m. He collided with the auto of Calvin Swisher, Springfield. Both operators were unhurt.

Lambert said Swisher, traveling south, made a left-hand turn in front of him near the Spic and Span Cleaners.

According to Swisher, he was looking for a place to park.

Five-year-old Barbara Michaels, Bowman's Addition, was admitted Friday night to Sacred Heart Hospital after she fell from her step-father's truck. She sustained bruise burns of the leg and arms and a forehead laceration.

Grand Jury To Meet

The October Grand Jury will convene this morning at 10 o'clock, with Benjamin M. Kamens as foreman, to open the October term of Circuit Court.

What To Do In Case Of Fire Is A Life Or Death Matter

What would you do if fire should break out in your home within the next few seconds?

"It's worth your life," Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker warned, "to know the right answers."

Many of the 42 Marylanders who died as a result of fires during the first seven months of 1954, he added, might be alive today if they had obeyed the following rules, announced in connection with Fire Prevention Week:

Get out of the house the minute you discover a fire or smell smoke.

Don't fling doors open if you think there's a fire—feel them first and if they're hot, get out another way or block the doors with furniture or mattresses to keep out smoke and gases.

Remember, the air is usually better near the floor in a smoke-filled building.

Hold your breath and cover your face if you have to make a dash through smoke or fire.

Don't jump or drop from upper-story windows except as a last resort—wait for the firemen.

Don't ever go back into a burning building for any reason—smoke and fire gases from even the smallest fire can be deadly.

Unless it's a small fire and you're certain you can control it with the right extinguisher, don't waste your time or your life by trying to fight a fire—get away from it and call the Fire Department at once—they know how to fight it.

Always be ready to use different escape routes from any room in your house—important to remember, too, when entering any other building.

If you're burned or exposed to fire and smoke, get medical treatment at once—seemingly minor burns or smoke inhalation can have serious results.

Firemen found the coat was smoldering from the heat of the lamp but that no fire had broken out.

South End Fire Company was called to Sykes Style Shop, 805 Maryland Avenue, yesterday at 4:10 p. m. after a coat in the display window fell on a spotlight.

Baptists Open Training School Here Tonight

Sessions Planned Through Friday

The Western District Baptists Training Union will hold a central training school at Grace Baptist Church, Greene Street, today through Friday, with sessions at 7:30 p. m. daily.

Classes are being arranged for each member of every family. Dr. J. E. Lambdin, Nashville, Tenn., secretary of the Baptist Training Union, and L. J. Newton, Baltimore, secretary of Religious Education, will be here for the school.

Mrs. L. J. Lambdin, Nashville, will instruct Junior leaders, and Mrs. John P. Taylor, Baltimore, will instruct Juniors.

Intermediate leaders will be in charge of Mrs. Ledbetter, Washington, D. C., and Intermediates will be in charge of Mrs. C. E. Thomas, Baltimore.

Young People will be instructed by Mrs. Rosser, Baltimore, and Rev. Samuel High of Baltimore will teach the Adults.

Members and leaders of the Nursery, Beginners and Primary departments will be led by Mrs. Samuel Hyde, Baltimore.

Mrs. P. E. Berry, Jr., 157 East Hampshire Street, Piedmont, is director of the Western District Baptists Training Union. She said last night that leaders from all area Baptist churches are expected to participate in this training school.

Watches Given To Two Employees At Amcelle Plant

Roy E. Witt, Cresaptown, and Elmer S. Smith, Bowling Green, were awarded gold wrist watches at Amcelle, recently on the 25th anniversary of his employment at Celanese, by R. F. Thompson, plant manager.

Witt is a Textile machine fixer and at various times has worked in every engineering section in the plant.

He is married and the father of a teen-age daughter. His hobbies are hunting and fishing.

Smith, a spinner, is married and the father of an adult son who is in the U. S. Navy. His favorite sport is deer hunting. He is a member of Aerie No. 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles.

W. D. Claus, plant engineer, also presented Witt an outward token of Amcelle's appreciation—the traditional gold five-star Celanese service emblem.

John Bestwick, Superintendent of Spinning, made a similar presentation to Smith.

The Weather

Summer-like weather continued yesterday and according to the weatherman's forecast for today, no change is expected. The high official temperature here yesterday was 80 degrees, while in downtown Cumberland a high reading of 82 was reported. The low was 61 and the relative humidity at 6 p. m. registered a sultry 82 per cent. Total rainfall measured .12 inches. The forecast is for continued warm and humid weather, with a few scattered showers and possibly thunderstorms.

Civil Defense Class In First Aid To Graduate

Second Area Group Completes Training

The final examination for a group of Civil Defense volunteers who have been taking first aid training will be held Friday night, according to H. Lee Silcox, Red Cross first aid instructor.

This is the second class trained under the current Civil Defense program here, Silcox said. The first was a group of employees of Rosenbaum's Store.

Upon satisfactory completion of the 22-hour study course and demonstrations, Red Cross standard first aid certificates are issued and these people are qualified. Silcox noted, to cope with any reasonable first aid emergency.

The class which is expected to complete the course Friday night has been meeting regularly at Sacred Heart School of Nursing. The group includes five members of the SD rescue squad, two members of the transportation corps, 13 members of the Ground Observation Corps, and four other CD volunteers.

The GOC group includes Robert C. Arthur, 811 Shriver Avenue; Jesse H. Baker, 626 Fairview Avenue; Russell Breighner, 22 Mullin Street; Robert Brinker, 509 Greenway Avenue; J. Edward Harvey, 11 Ridgeway Terrace; Phillip F. Hoenicka, 119 Polk Street; Robert M. Llewellyn, 431 Independence Street; William A. Lynch, 323 Davidson Street; Robert Potter, 882 Gephart Drive; Franklin W. Schilling, 509 Feetig Avenue; Elmer C. Seaber, 362 Bedford Street; Shannon S. Twigg, 116 North Allegany Street; and J. Edward Yacench, 17 Prospect Square.

The CD group includes Owen Hughes, Fort Ashby; Chester M. Jenkins, Patterson Creek; Littlefield Nixon, and Simon F. Piper, both of Oldtown.

Rescue squad includes James R. Twigg, Oldtown; William E. Frase and Richard Deremer, both of Fort Ashby; Noah S. Carder and Wilbur E. Crabtree, both of Oldtown.

Transportation corps includes John T. Morris, 223 Fulton Street, and Herman A. Cunningham, 24 Potomac Street.

Silcox said last night several other classes in first aid are being formed and announcements about them will be made later by the Red Cross and Civil Defense.

Men May Apply To Enter Coast Guard Academy

Rep. Dewitt S. Hyde, Republican representative from the Sixth Congressional District, has announced that the competitive examination for entrance to the United States Coast Guard Academy will be held nationwide on February 28 and March 1, 1955.

Congressman Hyde emphasized the opportunity offered young men who choose this four-year course which leads to a bachelor of science degree in engineering and a commission as a career officer.

"There are no appointments or geographical quotas for entrance to the Coast Guard Academy," he said. "I urge all qualified young men who are interested in a worthwhile profession to write for details and applications as soon as possible to Coast Guard Headquarters in Washington. Applications must be postmarked on or before January 15."

A high school diploma is the minimum educational requirement, although high school seniors assured of being graduated by June 30 are eligible to take the examination if they will have at least 15 credits by that time.

The charge was placed by Detective Joseph H. Stitzer, who said he found the device in the basement of the building during an inspection of the premises.

Police said the slot machine was rusted.

Woman Posts Bond On Gaming Count

Mrs. Sofia Simmons, 22 Bedford Street, posted $200 bond Saturday at 9 p. m. on a charge of possession of a gaming device—a slot machine.

The charge was placed by Detective Joseph H. Stitzer, who said he found the device in the basement of the building during an inspection of the premises.

Police said the slot machine was rusted.

News Briefs

The first meeting of the West Side School PTA will be held tomorrow night. New members will register in home rooms at 7 p. m. and teachers will meet with parents in their home rooms from 7:30 to 8 p. m. A musical program will be held in the auditorium and Miss Mary G. Walsh will present a book review after the general meeting.

A special meeting of the Allegany County Bar Association has been called by Matthew J. Mulaney, president, this morning at 9 a. m. in the law library of the Court House. The purpose of the meeting will be to discuss constitutional amendments that will be on the ballot November 2.

The child hygiene clinic scheduled for tomorrow by the Health Department has been cancelled. It will be held next Tuesday at 10 a. m. in the basement at City Hall.

23 Of 32 On Ballot Here To Be Elected

Republicans Certain To Win At Least 13 County Offices In November Balloting

The old maxim that for every winner there must be a loser simply does not apply in the November 2 general election in Allegany County.

Twenty-three of the 32 persons listed as candidates for state, district and county offices must be elected. That means that 71.9 per cent of them will be successful barring an unprecedented write-in vote.

Nine candidates, eight Republicans and one Democrat, are certain of victory November 2 simply because they have no opposition.

The unopposed Republicans, all seeking county offices, are Joseph E. Boden, clerk of the Circuit Court; Paul M. Fletcher, state's attorney; James G. Stevenson, clerk to the County Commissioners; A. Charles Stewart, register of wills; William C. Abbott, Hugh Stevenson and J. French Van Meter, judges of the Orphans' Court, and James W. Bishop, county treasurer. All but Bishop have previously won elections. Bishop is serving by appointment.

The Democrat certain of reelection is State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes. He has no Republican opposition.

In addition to the eight offices in which they face no Democratic opposition, the Republicans of this county also are assured of winning five other posts no matter how successful their opposition.

At Least One Commissioner For instance, should A. Lee Marple, Independent, and James P. Russell, Democrat, both be elected County Commissioners, one of the three Republicans would have to win because there are three positions to be filled. The three Republican candidates are William H. Lemmert and James Orr, both incumbents, and Charles N. Wilkinson, a former commissioner.

Republicans also are assured of holding onto at least four of the six seats in the House of Delegates. There are only two Democratic candidates, Charles O. Buskirk and Leslie J. Clark, for the six jobs. Should they pull an upset and win, four of the six Republicans still would have to be elected to fill the six seats. The GOP candidates are Noel Speir Cook, Fred B. Driscoll, George R. Hughes Jr., Estel C. Keiley, Lester B. Reed and Charles M. See. All of the Republicans but Hughes now hold office.

So the worst the Republicans can do is keep 13 county offices. The best they can do is to retain the 22 positions they now hold, from Governor on down. On the other hand the worst the Democrats can do is keep Tawes' seat, the only one at stake they now claim. The Democrats' best would be to win three state offices, the Congress seat and the five county positions in which they have entered candidates.

5 Jobs Contested There are only five contests on the November 2 ballot here in which two men are competing for one job. They are the ones that are arousing most interest.

Chief among them is the gubernatorial race between Theodore R. McKeldin, the Republican incumbent, and Harry Clifton Byrd, the Democrat.

For attorney general of Maryland the rivals are Edward D. E. Rollins, Cecil County Republican who is filling the job by appointment, and C. Ferdinand Sybert, Howard County Democrat.

Then there is the Congressional race where Dewitt S. Hyde, the Montgomery County Republican, seeks a second term in a contest (Continued on Page 11, Col. 8)

St. James said the tongue is a world of iniquity that defileth the whole body. How deep and sore are the wounds inflicted by the tongue. The slanderous and lying tongue. But how comforting and soothing is a word of kindness. In the 15th psalm we have, "Lord who shall abide in Thy tabernacle? The answer is he that walketh uprightly and speaketh the truth in his heart."

Love thinketh no evil, it is kind and good. Before we report an unkind tale let us ask (1) is it true, (2) is it necessary, (3) is it kind? All of us need to pray, "Let the words of my mouth be acceptable in thy sight."

Grant County Miner Is Found Dead In Stream

Falls Into Water After Becoming Ill

A Grant County coal miner was found lying dead in a stream near his home yesterday and authorities reported late last night that death resulted from a heart attack.

The victim was Robert Newell, about 55, who lived alone in his home about five miles northeast of Mt. Storm, and near the Boo Murphy mine, where he was employed.

Grant County Sheriff Carl Weimer said Newell was found lying in the stream by a neighbor, Luther Kitzmiller.

The sheriff said it was believed the man had fallen off the low bridge and into the water.

He added that a neighbor, Ben Yankee, stopped in to see Newell yesterday afternoon and found the miner was sick, complaining of a severe pain in the chest.

Newell, the sheriff said, asked Yankee to get someone to take him to a doctor, and Yankee went to locate someone with a car.

While Yankee was on his errand of mercy, Kitzmiller stopped by and found Newell lying in the water.

Sheriff Weimer said authorities found no signs of violence and that Coroner Earl Cosner, Mt. Storm, reported there was no need for a formal inquest.

Late last night, the Romney barracks of the West Virginia State Police said Sheriff Weimer advised them Dr. Ralph Calandrella had reported the man died of coronary thrombosis.

Also investigating were Trooper Joseph Leeson and Grant County Constables R. C. Day and Linton Sites.

Survivors include a brother, Walter D. Newell, of Fairmont, W. Va. The body is at the Sharpless Funeral Home, Blaine, W. Va.

Apprentices Attend School

Night schools for apprentices of two AFL building craft unions resumed Thursday night at Fort Hill High School.

The classes are held under the adult program of the Board of Education in cooperation with Local 489, Plumbers and Steamfitters Union, and Local 307, Electrical Workers Union.

Don Foley, of this city, is the instructor for the Plumber and Steamfitters' apprentice class, which meets Thursday at 7:15 p. m.

Nineteen apprentices signed up at the opening session and enrollment is expected to reach 22. Subjects will include mathematics, blueprints and heating practices and fabrication theory.

The classes for electrician apprentices will be taught by Thomas Larkin, of this city, assisted by Wade Coffey.

About 25 apprentices are expected to attend the classes which are tentatively scheduled for Tuesdays at 7 p. m. at Fort Hill High School.

'Outer Space' Play To Be Here Today

The Edwin Strawbridge production of "Tommy Tucker's Adventures in Outer Space" will be presented at Fort Hill High School for children of the Cumberland area at 9:30 a. m. and 1 p. m. by the Allegany County Council of Parents and Teachers.

The schedule for the remainder of the week:

Independents No Party, Declares Attorney General

Demos Can Claim Board Positions

The Democrats in Allegany County appear to be safe, so far as minority appointments to boards and commissions are concerned.

A few days ago, local politicians raised a question regarding the appointment of the minority member of the Allegany County Board of Liquor License Commissioners. It was ventured that since there is an independent candidate running for election to the Board of Allegany County Commissioners, the Democrats might lose their minority appointments, if this independent polled more votes than the Democratic candidate for commissioner.

Edward D. E. Rollins, attorney general of Maryland, was asked for an opinion on the question and his unofficial reply would indicate that the Democrats are safe.

In a letter to The News, he writes as follows:

"The problem arises by reason of the fact that there is an independent candidate for the office of County Commissioner of Allegany County, and the statutory provision requires that the Board of License Commissioners shall consist of three persons, two of whom shall always be members of the political party which at the last preceding general election, polled the greatest number of votes in the aggregate for the several offices of County Commissioner, and the third member of the Board shall always be a member of that political party which at the last preceding general election in Allegany County, polled the second highest number of votes in the aggregate for the several offices of County Commissioner therein."

Rollins, in his letter, continues: "While the Attorney General is the legal adviser of the Governor and other State officials and does not ordinarily render opinions to County officials, I have no objection to expressing my own personal views on your question."

"The statutory provision that the third member of the Board of Liquor License Commissioners shall be a member of the political party which polls the second highest number of votes, does not, I think, give rise to any complication, because to my knowledge, there is no political party in Maryland known as the 'Independent' party."

"The name of a candidate who files an independent nominating petition . . . is printed on the ballot together with the political party contained in his petition, 'but if there shall have been any nomination for the same office by convention or primary election claiming the same party name, there shall be then printed to the right of the name of the candidate so nominated by petition, only the word, 'Independent' and none other.'"

In his letter, Rollins quoted from the sections of the Maryland Code which apply.

From Rollins' unofficial opinion, local observers agreed that the Democrats can probably claim the minority appointment on the liquor board.

The question arose when it was brought out that A. Lee Marple had filed for county commissioner as an independent candidate. He opposes William H. Lemmert, James Orr and Charles N. "Jerry" Wilkinson, Republicans, and a lone Democrat, James P. Russell, Mt. Savage. The Democrats feared they might lose the appointment if Marple, as an independent, polled more votes than their candidate, Russell.

KC Assembly Holds Dinner

The third annual Defenders Day dinner of the Chief Justice Taney General Assembly, Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, was held Saturday at the Ali Ghan Country Club, with an address by Sir Knight William M. Lennox, L.L.D., highlighting the affair.

Lennox cited the accomplishments of the organization, mentioning that the youth program of the K of C is helping to combat one of the most urgent problems facing this nation—juvenile delinquency. He also remarked that the Knight of Columbus has been instrumental in bringing the Vatican Library to St. Louis University by microfilming all the manuscripts at the Vatican.

Five veteran members of the General Assembly were honored: Thomas F. Conlon Sr., Cumberland; Charles W. Carney and Thomas E. Stephens, Mt. Savage; William J. Shuck, Ridgeley, and Edward L. Gooding, Frostburg.

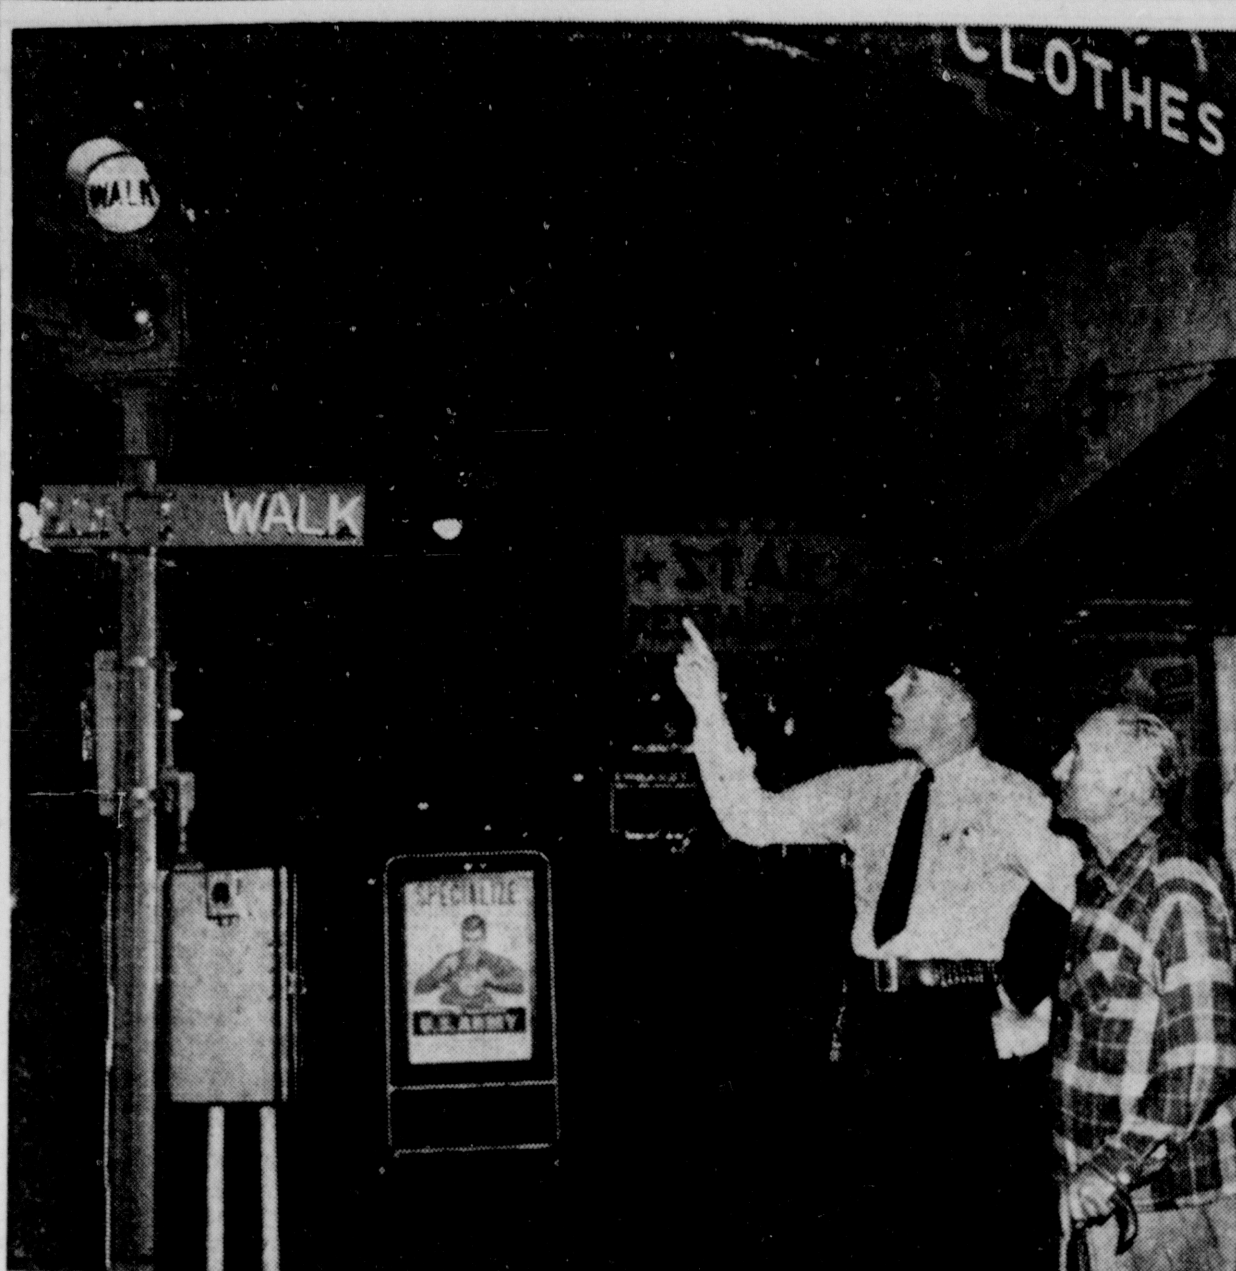

J. D. Murray, faithful navigator, gave the address of welcome; Edward Neus, deputy grand knight of Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus, was the toastmaster; and Rev. Marius Elsenor, pastor of St. Peter and Paul Catholic Church, offered the invocation.

A dance was held following the dinner.

Dog Is Peppered With BB Shot

City police are investigating a report from Mrs. R. C. Marker, 522 Williams Street, that someone shot her dog with a BB rifle.

Detective Joseph Sticher said the animal was marked and bleeding in several places. Sticher said charges of cruelty to animals and of discharging firearms within the city can be filed in the case.

Both Lights Say WALK

Patrolman Walter P. Dennison explains the operation of Cumberland's new pedestrian traffic signals on Baltimore Street to John L. Oldaker, 74, a retired Kelly-Springfield Tire Company worker, of 220 Glenn Street. The officer emphasized that pedestrians may walk across intersections when both the amber traffic light and the neon signals show WALK. The new system was placed into effect yesterday afternoon and will get its acid test in heavy traffic today and tonight.

New Traffic Light Setup Is Placed In Operation

Cumberland's new pedestrian traffic system was placed into effect on Baltimore Street yesterday afternoon.

Patrolmen were stationed at each intersection to help both drivers and pedestrians to get acquainted with the new plan, and reported generally satisfactory operation.

Other officers will be on hand today, when the system will get its first acid test, due to the heavy vehicular and pedestrian traffic which occurs when stores stay open for night shopping.

At least one accident occurred at Baltimore and Centre streets within three hours after the new system took effect.

A pedestrian, apparently unaware the changeover had been made, stepped off the curb to cross North Centre Street as the light went green.

The driver of a car making a left turn into North Centre slammed on his brakes to avoid striking the pedestrian, and another car banged into the rear of the first car. Damage amounted to a dented fender and a smashed headlight and parking light on the second car. No charges were filed.

The system was placed into effect about 4 p. m., when Potomac Edison Company technicians completed the task of changing over the signal system for the new operation.

The plan, similar to one used here some 15 months ago, allows pedestrians to cross intersections from any angle during a 15 second interval when both traffic and neon lights indicate WALK.

All vehicular traffic is required to come to a halt while pedestrians cross the intersections.

The walk intervals occur after two vehicular light changes.

Amos Lambert, husband of the injured woman, told State Police he was driving north when the accident occurred about 11 a. m. He collided with the auto of Calvin Swisher, Springfield. Both operators were unhurt.

Lambert said Swisher, traveling south, made a left-hand turn in front of him near the Spic and Span Cleaners.

According to Swisher, he was looking for a place to park.

Five-year-old Barbara Michaels, Bowman's Addition, was admitted Friday night to Sacred Heart Hospital after she fell from her stepfather's truck. She sustained bruise of the leg and arms and a forehead laceration.

Civil Defense Class In First Aid To Graduate

Second Area Group Completes Training

The final examination for a group of Civil Defense volunteers who have been taking first aid training will be held Friday night, according to H. Lee Silcox, Red Cross first aid instructor.

This is the second class trained under the current Civil Defense program here, Silcox said. The first was a group of employees of Rosenbaum's Store.

Upon satisfactory completion of the 22-hour study course and demonstrations, Red Cross standard first aid certificates are issued and these people are qualified, Silcox noted, to cope with any reasonable first aid emergency.

The class which is expected to complete the course Friday night has been meeting regularly at Sacred Heart School of Nursing. The group includes five members of the SD rescue squad, two members of the transportation corps, 13 members of the Ground Observation Corps, and four other CD volunteers.

The GOC group includes Robert C. Arthur, 811 Shriver Avenue; Jesse H. Baker, 626 Fairview Avenue; Russell Breighner, 22 Mullin Street; Robert Brinker, 509 Greenway Avenue; J. Edward Harvey, 11 Ridgeway Terrace; Philip F. Hoenicka, 119 Polk Street; Robert M. Llewellyn, 431 Independence Street; William A. Lynch, 323 Davidson Street; Robert Potter, 882 Gephart Drive; Franklin W. Schilling, 509 Fectig Avenue; Elmer C. Seaber, 362 Bedford Street; Shannon S. Twigg, 116 North Allegany Street; and J. Edward Yacenench, 17 Prospect Square.

The CD group includes Owen Hughes, Fort Ashby; Chester M. Jenkins, Patterson Creek; Littlefield Nixon, and Simon F. Piper, both of Oldtown.

Rescue squad includes James R. Twigg, Oldtown; William E. Frase and Richard Deremer, both of Fort Ashby; Noah S. Carder and Wilbur E. Crabtree, both of Oldtown.

Transportation corps includes John T. Morris, 223 Fulton Street, and Herman A. Cunningham, 24 Potomac Street.

Silcox said last night several other classes in first aid are being formed and announcements about them will be made later by the Red Cross and Civil Defense.

Rep. Dewitt S. Hyde, Republican representative from the Sixth Congressional District, has announced that the competitive examination for entrance to the United States Coast Guard Academy will be held nationwide on February 28 and March 1, 1955.

Congressman Hyde emphasized the opportunity offered young men who choose this four-year course which leads to a bachelor of science degree in engineering and a commission as a career officer.

"There are no appointments or geographical quotas for entrance to the Coast Guard Academy," he said. "I urge all qualified young men who are interested in a worthwhile profession to write for details and applications as soon as possible to Coast Guard Headquarters in Washington. Applications must be postmarked on or before January 15."

A high school diploma is the minimum educational requirement, although high school seniors assured of being graduated by June 30 are eligible to take the examination if they will have at least 15 credits by that time.

23 Of 32 On Ballot Here To Be Elected

Republicans Certain To Win At Least 13 County Offices In November Balloting

The old maxim that for every winner there must be a loser simply does not apply in the November 2 general election in Allegany County.

Twenty-three of the 32 persons listed as candidates for state, district and county offices must be elected. That means that 71.9 per cent of them will be successful barring an almost unprecedented write-in vote.

Nine candidates, eight Republicans and one Democrat, are certain of victory November 2 simply because they have no opposition.

The unopposed Republicans, all seeking county offices, are Joseph E. Boden, clerk of the Circuit Court; Paul M. Fletcher, state's attorney; James G. Stevenson, clerk to the County Commissioners; A. Charles Stewart, register of wills; William C. Abbott, Hugh Stevenson and J. French Van Meter, judges of the Orphans' Court, and James W. Bishop, county treasurer. All but Bishop have previously won elections.

The Democrat certain of reelection is State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes. He has no Republican opposition.

In addition to the eight offices in which they face no Democratic opposition, the Republicans of this county also are assured of winning five other posts no matter how successful their opposition.

At Least One Commissioner For instance, should A. Lee Marple, Independent, and James P. Russell, Democrat, both be elected County Commissioners, one of the three Republicans would have to win because there are three positions to be filled. The three Republican candidates are William H. Lemmert and James Orr, both incumbents, and Charles N. Wilkinson, a former commissioner.

Republicans also are assured of holding onto at least four of the six seats in the House of Delegates. There are only two Democratic candidates; Charles O. Buskirk and Leslie J. Clark, for the six jobs. Should they pull an upset and win, four of the six Republicans still would have to be elected to fill the six seats.

The GOP candidates are Noel Speir Cook, Fred H. Driscoll, George R. Hughes Jr., Estel C. Keiley, Lester B. Reed and Charles M. See. All of the Republicans but Hughes now hold office.

So the worst the Republicans can do is keep 13 county offices. The best they can do is to retain the 22 positions they now hold, from Governor on down. On the other hand the worst the Democrats can do is keep Tawes' seat, the only one at stake they now claim. The Democrats' best would be to win three state offices, the Congress seat and the five county positions in which they have entered candidates.

5 Jobs Contested There are only five contests on the November 2 ballot here in which two men are competing for one job. They are the ones that are arousing most interest.

Chief among them is the gubernatorial race between Theodore R. McKeldin, the incumbent, and Harry Clifton Byrd, the Democrat.

For attorney general of Maryland the rivals are Edward D. E. Rollins, Cecil County Republican who is filling the job by appointment, and C. Ferdinand Sybert, Howard County Democrat.

Then there is the Congressional race where DeWitt S. Hyde, the Montgomery County Republican, seeks a second term in a contest (Continued on Page 11, Col. 8) and also his shame. With the tongue we can praise God, comfort the mourner, counsel the youth etc. Yet with the same tongue you can tempt to do evil, condemn the good, slander or blaspheme God.

St. James said the tongue is a world of iniquity that defileth the whole body. How deep and sore are the wounds inflicted by the tongue. The slanderous and lying tongue. But how comforting and soothing is a word of kindness. In the 15th psalm we have, "Lord who shall abide in Thy tabernacle? The answer is he that walketh uprightly and speaketh the truth in his heart."

Love thinketh no evil, it is kind and good. Before we report an unkind tale let us ask (1) is it true, (2) is it necessary, (3) is it kind? All of us need to pray, "Let the words of my mouth be acceptable in thy sight."

III. Then there is kindness of deed. We see and hear much of the evil side of human nature. Evil deeds make for news. Shakespeare spoke of the little nameless, unremembered acts of kindness and love. That is undoubtedly what Jesus had in mind in the judgment scene when he said, Come ye blessed of My father, inherit the Kingdom prepared for you, for I was hungry and ye gave me meat, thirsty and ye gave me drink, a stranger and ye took me in, and they said, When saw we Thee hungry or thirsty or a stranger etc. Then Jesus said, Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these ye did it unto Me.

It is your privilege and mine to be ministers of the kindness of God. May God help us to be.

Grant County Miner Is Found Dead In Stream

Falls Into Water After Becoming Ill

A Grant County coal miner was found lying dead in a stream near his home yesterday and authorities reported late last night that death resulted from a heart attack.

The victim was Robert Newell, about 55, who lived alone in his home about five miles northeast of Mt. Storm, and near the Boo Murphy mine, where he was employed.

Grant County Sheriff Carl Weimer said Newell was found lying in the stream by a neighbor, Luther Kitzmiller.

The sheriff said it was believed the man had fallen off the low bridge and into the water.

He added that a neighbor, Ben Yankee, stopped in to see Newell yesterday afternoon and found the miner was sick, complaining of a severe pain in the chest.

Newell, the sheriff said, asked Yankee to get someone to take him to a doctor, and Yankee went to locate someone with a car.

While Yankee was on his errand of mercy, Kitzmiller stopped by and found Newell lying in the water.
